Starting an education conversation

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Meetings to start a community conversation about the future type of education to provide local children are underway.

Interested Antioch High School District 117 residents are encouraged to attend PEG (Partnership for Educational Growth) meetings at 7 p.m. every third Monday of the month. The next PEG meeting is Oct. 20 in the ACHS Staff Conference Center.

"I would hope that they will attend," said Dr. Dennis Hockney, superintendent of ACHS District 117. "We want the public to become involved," he said.

The PEG group has met during the past year to discuss the use of collaborative decision making to improve the school. "PEG is composed of parents, students, teacher association representatives, members of the school administration, a representative from the Board of Education of District 117, and a representative from the Lindenhurst-Lake Villa Chamber of Commerce," Hockney said. Some changes have been undertaken already at the school district level.

The PEG group is preparing a draft report about the process of collaborative change and how to achieve system-wide improvement.

"The primary goal for change at ACHS," according to a mid-September draft of the report, "is to improve student learning and performance." The report states: "Many steps will be required to reach this goal, including changes in the ways in which schools make decisions, changes in the culture and climate of the school district, and the continued development of trust among all members of the school community."

An initial opening for district residents to become part of the process of school change was a visit and speech by Jamie Vollmer, president of the Fairfield, Iowa-based Local Control Project to speak at Antioch Community High School, Sept. 29. The Local Control project works with school districts to help educators and community residents discuss the future of their schools and support agreed-upon efforts to change them.

PEG members had originally heard Vollmer speak in 1996 in Oak Brook, at a function sponsored by the Consortium for Educational Change, an initiative for school improvement by the Illinois Education Association. Jo Anderson Jr., co-staff of the consortium, had said efforts to improve Antioch schools would best emerge from a community-based initiative. "This can't be a few people. This can't be a group," he said. "This process takes awhile. It has to involve all the stakeholders."

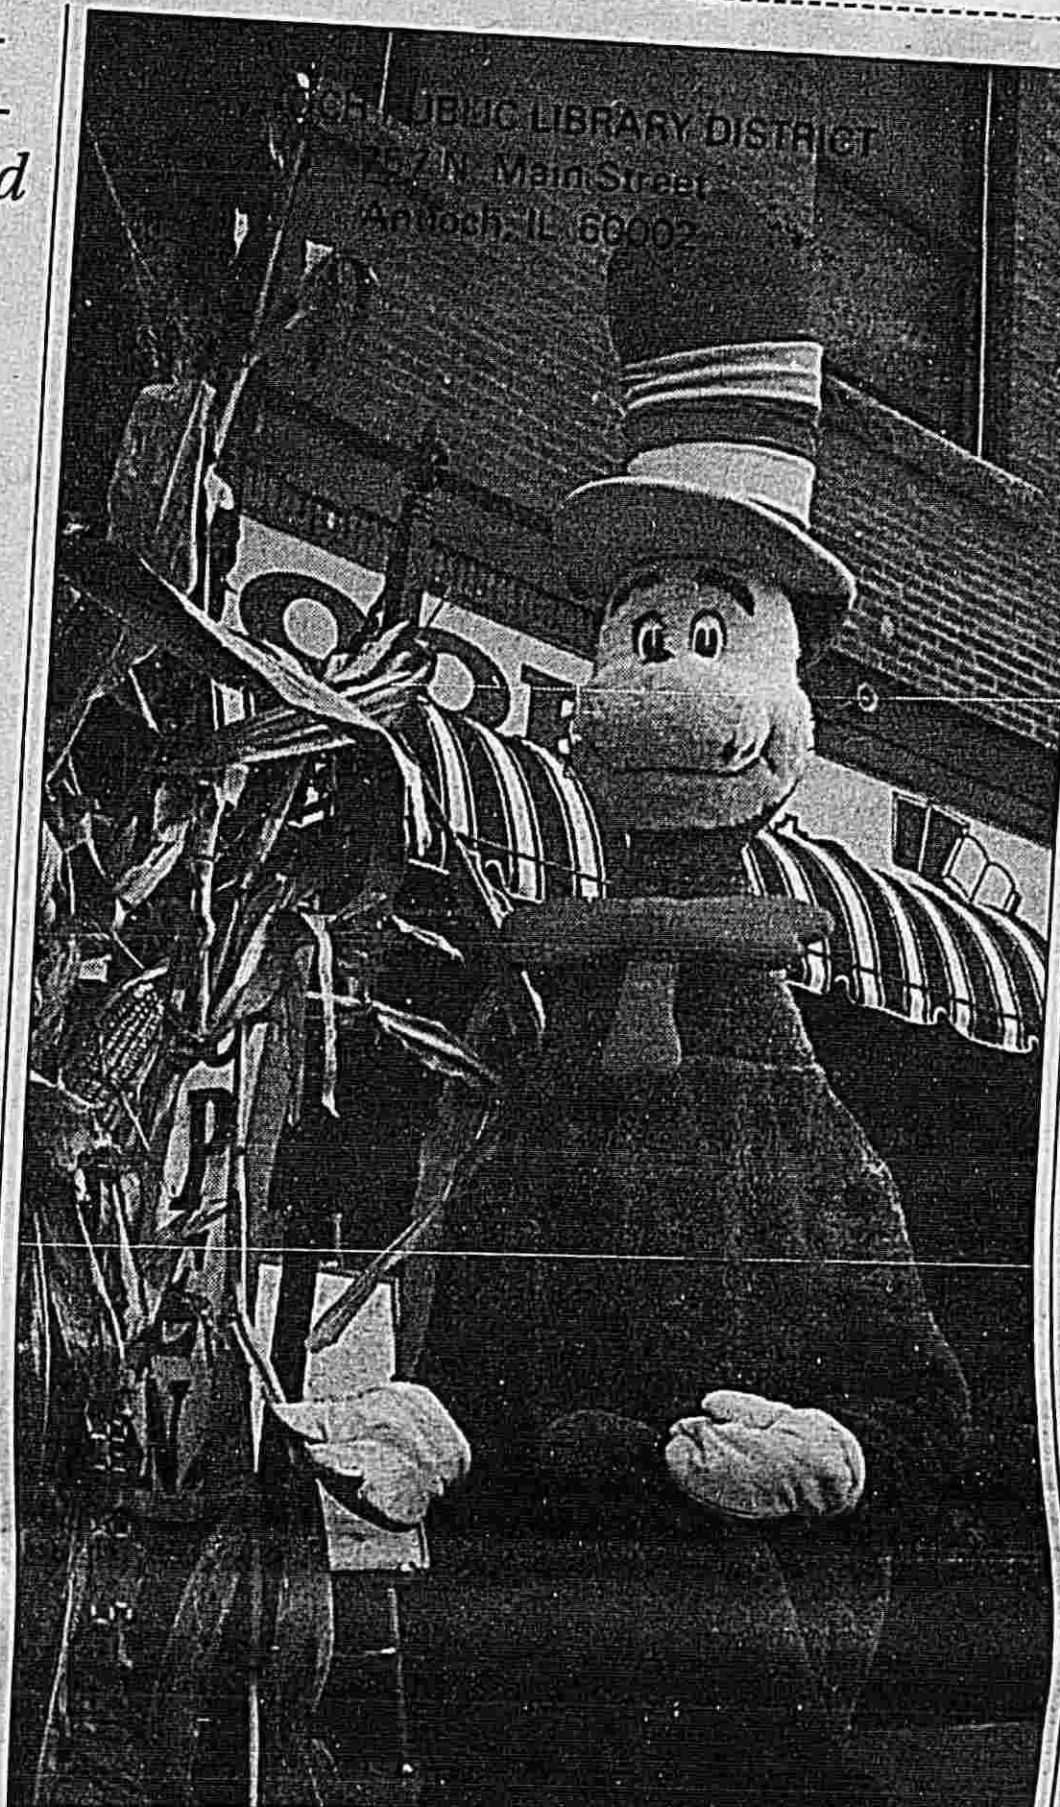

Vollmer spoke to community leaders, educators, and parents at the invitation of PEG in a series of meetings starting at noon and ending after 9:30 p.m. that night.

The evening meeting at the high school was an open invitation for all people in the district to hear Vollmer's monologue about education past, present, and future. In that speech, he urged community-wide dialogue about what people want to happen in the high school to prepare children for the future.

Vollmer provided a history of public education in the United States to illustrate how public schools were successful in meeting past social and economic needs of the country.

"You, as the community, have to say: 'what do these kids need to know, what should they be able to Work to resurface Route 173 will take it from the worst condition category to the best. The Illinois Department of Transportation is about half way through the $1.46 million project.

Maintenance work on the 9.75 miles of road from the McHenry County border to Route 45 east of Antioch was estimated to be 40 percent complete on Oct. 8.

"It's an expensive, long, maintenance job," said IDOT's Ed Wilson. Most resurfacing projects do not involve as many miles as does this one. The length of resurfacing projects is not standardized. "It depends on reasonable limits and the roadway conditions," Wilson said.

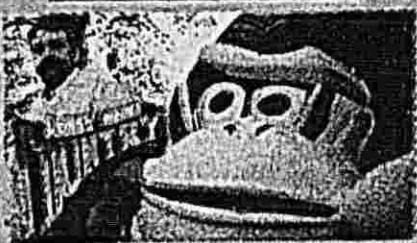

A department survey of the original surface quality or texture showed that the road was in poor condition. Condition ratings fall on a scale up to 9. Ratings less than 4.5 are considered poor. Fair ratings are those between 4.6 and 6. Good ratings are those between 6.1 and 7.5. An excellent rating is between 7.6 and 9. The condition rating for Route 173 was evaluated as 4.4 and 4.5, both considered to be poor.

"We waited this long (to resurface it) because we couldn't fund it," Wilson said.

The project is considered to be normal maintenance. The top 1.5 inches are milled from the road surface. Later, the road's surface is replaced with 1.5 inches of asphalt.

The two lane road is used by 11,800 vehicles a day according to Wilson. "It is well within its operating capacity," he said.

Halloween Howl begins to build bonfire

Events start this weekend with Scarecrow building contest

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Village Halloween Howl events begin this weekend and unfold over the next three weekends.

This weekend, Oct. 18, the village sponsors its first scarecrow contest, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Next weekend, Oct. 24 and 25, there are downtown Main Street events for two age groups of children. The two-day event includes the majority of the village's volunteer-led Halloween Howl celebration. To end the month, trick or treat hours for the village are set for Friday, Oct. 31 from 4 to 7 p.m.

"You can come and build your own scarecrow," said Claude LeMere, Antioch community development director. The village will make available materials to build a scarecrow.

Scarecrow construction requires a $2 donation for the Antioch Mental Health Association. The Village provides clothes, straw, twine, wire and a plastic bag for a head to prop up a hat. The completed entries may be donated to local merchants for window displays. Awards for best creations will be placed on scarecrows in store windows on Oct. 23. Awards are to be presented at the Oct. 25 bonfire. Winners will receive Chamber of Commerce and Industry gift certificates or a monetary award.

Free pumpkins will be given away by The Advertiser on Monday, Oct. 20.

Other events are tucked into the many corners of the community and its web sites. For example, parents may pick-up a child safety seat sticker from the members of the Antioch Junior Woman's Club. The CHAD stickers are distributed both days between JJ Blinkers and Canton Tea Garden. Attached to the safety seat, the sticker will notify emergency rescue personnel of the child's name if others are not available to provide the information. Also, the Antioch Chamber of Commerce is currently sponsoring a coloring contest on its web site. They will give away a Beanie Baby™ named Spooky to the winner. The holiday-inspired design for coloring may be downloaded from their web site (www.lake-online.com/antioch).

Halloween Howl is, of course, the primary recreation event.

On Oct. 24 and 25, children 10 and under may participate in downtown events from 4:30 to 9 p.m. and noon to 6 p.m., respectively. These include games, prizes, candy, happy ghosts, happy haunted graveyard, and smiling spirits.

On the same two days, children 10 years and older may enter the Mummy's Tomb, Dracula's Cave, and the Tunnel of Terror from 6 to 9:30 p.m. on Friday and from 1 to 6 p.m. on Saturday.

Village says Halloween Howl volunteers 'Make a Difference'

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Halloween Howl volunteers may give the Village of Antioch something to yowl about.

Antioch's downtown Halloween Howl occurs on "Make a Difference Day," October 25, and, as a volunteer activity, is eligible for national recognition as an event that helps other people.

Village officials have submitted a description of its eligibility to the Commission on Community Service of the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs.

Laurie Stahl, Antioch parks and recreation coordinator, said that the application is intended to honor volunteer contributions that make the local event such a success for so many young people. "Make a Difference Day" encourages volunteers to help others. "That is pretty much what Halloween Howl is," said Stahl.

Approximately 150 community volunteers donate time to make this children's event a success. There are five categories of benefits for which projects and events are considered. Three areas in which Halloween Howl is considered responsive to award criteria include: ongoing relationships with caring adults; safe places and structured activities, and opportunities to serve.

"You just have to fit into one (category), but we happen to meet the criteria of three," Stahl said.

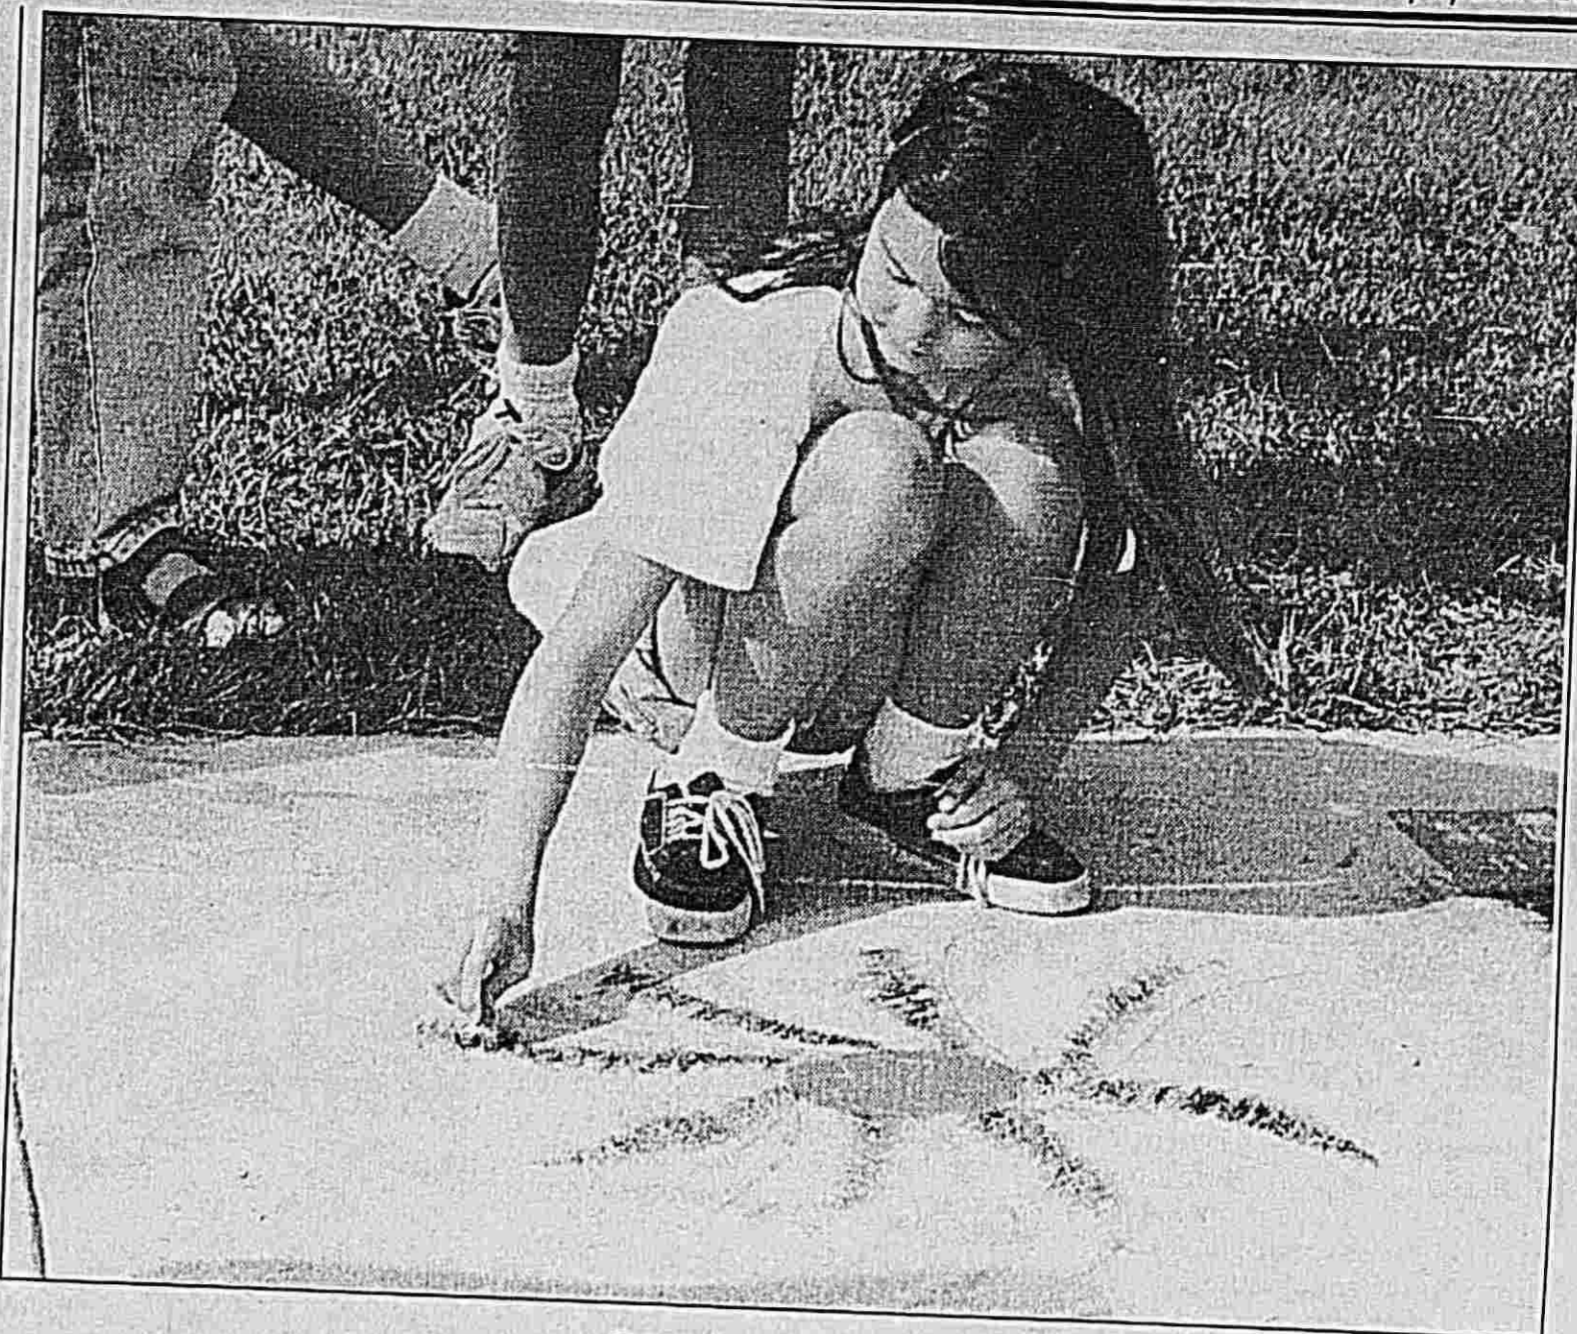

Halloween Howl is a two-day event for multiple age groups of children and families. "This event is a great way for families to spend a fun-filled weekend together and all activities are free," according to the Village newsletter.

The cost for activities is borne by sponsors, such as The Advertiser, Biller Press, Lakeland Newspapers, the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, the Community Development Department, and the Village of Antioch.

"Make a Difference Day" is intended to help people become aware of needs within the community that can be helped with volunteer activity by groups or by individuals. "They want people to make a difference all across the country to draw attention to the need," Stahl said.

Projects that are considered by judges to capture the spirit of Make a Difference Day may share in awards of $130,000.

"After the event, we have to send in additional information that documents what happened," Stahl said.

HOWL: Events begin Saturday

och Coalition of Auto Retailers, start in front of the True Value Hardware Store. There will be a spacewalk at Smiling Spirits behind Ben Franklin Home Accents store. Face painting will be in front of Crafter's Gallery.

On Friday only, at 7 p.m., pumpkins will be judged at Jack's Four Squires on Lake Street. Prizes are awarded by age category 0 to 6, 7 to 12, and 13 and older. Pumpkins should be submitted between 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m.

There will be a pumpkin carving contest, Friday only, at 7:30 p.m., in front of Johnson's Jewelers. The audience will judge the pumpkins.

Also only on Friday, there will be a haunted ride that leaves from the front door of Betty Sills Gallery. It is sponsored by the Triangle Bait Shop.

The Antioch Upper Grade School Parent Teacher Organization will have food for sale at the Witches Kitchen.

Halloween Howl concludes Saturday night with events at the bonfire behind the stores on the east side of Main Street. At 6 p.m., the bonfire is lit and storytelling begins. At 6:30 p.m., there will be costume judging for age categories, 0-6, 7-12, and 13 and older.

Sponsors for Halloween Howl include The Advertiser, Biller Press, Lakeland Newspapers, Antioch Chamber of Commerce, Community Development, and the Village of Antioch.

STARTING: ACHS community to begin education conversation do?" You send your kids out there just with the three Rs, you send them without the three Ts—thinking, technology, and teamwork—you are sending your kids to get creamed in the global labor force."

Vollmer's message is critical of schools today but hopeful for the future. "The fact of the matter is, ladies and gentlemen, your schools are doing a better job now than they have ever done in the history of this school district. Ever," he said. "They are doing exactly what they were asked to do a long time ago. And every time they try to make a change, the communities halt the process of change." He is optimistic for the future, if people will begin to have a conversation about their schools. He believes community residents must be the major force for change in local schools.

"Every single community has to come together and have a conversation about what they want their kids to know how to do. Until that happens, it's always somebody else's point of view about what should be funded in that building," Vollmer said.

Library Friends sponsor Cedarburg tour

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Antioch Library Friends will sponsor a tour to Cedarburg, Wis. on Saturday, December 6 to visit the town's three arts and crafts fairs and a decorated Victorian farmhouse.

The tour will allow for three hours of afternoon shopping.

Travel to Cedarburg is on a Deluxe Motorcoach with 44 seats, a professional escort, and on-board washrooms. The $45 cost includes a gourmet lunch at Alpine Village Restaurant in Mequon, Wisconsin.

"Based on the response to our Chicago tour, I think people should sign-up immediately," said Nancy

Brown of the Antioch Library Friends group. "The sooner they call the better."

There are four holiday art and craft events to see in Cedarburg. Christmas in the Country is the 23rd Annual Art and Craft Show and Sale. There are more than 75 artisans with ornaments, wearable art, dolls, Santa figures, wreaths, and gifts for sale. There is a $3 admission charge. The second show is That Christmas Feeling. The show features an opportunity to bid on a handmade quilted tree skirt. There is a $3 admission charge. A third show is the Holiday Teddy Bear & Doll Show and Sale. There is a $3 admission charge.

A fourth event is a tour of a Christmas House. This is a Victorian farmhouse decorated for the holidays. It features the 1886 gingerbread adornment of a Cedarburg cooper. There is a $4 admission charge.

The tour leaves from the municipal parking lot behind Ben Franklin Home Accents on Toft Avenue. The bus leaves Antioch at 9:30 a.m. and leaves Cedarburg at 4:15 p.m. for a 5:30 p.m. arrival in Antioch.

"People can sign up until the day we leave. If there are seats available," said Brown.

Call Nancy Brown at 847-838-2332 to make a reservation. Mail checks, made out to Antioch Library Friends, to 320 Hawthorne Court, Antioch, 60002.

Lindblad to tell war stories at history meeting

The Lakes Region Historical Society meeting at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 23 will include Robert Lindblad's comments about the duties of the 38th ADG Squadron during World War II. This squadron spent time in Africa, Italy, and France building and repairing B-17 bombers and P-38 Fighters for the 15th Air Force. He will present a look into the everyday lives of these men, sharing experiences good, bad, and funny. The public is invited.

The Emmons Elementary School PTO will have its Fall Fun Festival Friday evening from 6 to 8:30 p.m. "It is held to collect money for the school to purchase items for the classroom and school," said Linda Schmitt. These are items not usually in the school budget, but that teachers think will be good to have. "It has happened at least six or seven years," she said. The public is encouraged to attend.

Cub Scout Pack 93, Den 4 (Webeles II) attended the Oct. 6 Antioch Village Board meeting. Pack members David Chesonis Jr., Brett Carpenter, Cody Strickland, and Eddy Mayer patiently sat, more or less, through approximately 90 minutes of intense, vigorous debate between community residents and village officials about the approval of a Planning and Zoning Board recommendation. At the end of the evening, during which Mayor Marilyn Shineflug took the lead to explain the Village position regarding its subsequent support for the recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Board, she asked the scouts if they had any question. "What do you do?" was the first question asked. Shineflug and other trustees explained what they did, although the question initially brought forth quite a bit of laughter from the adults who had been through a very strenuous evening. The leader of the pack who brought them to the meeting to see government decision making is David Chesonis.

Casino Night at Prince of Peace Parish Hall is this Saturday, Oct. 18, from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. For more information call 847-356-6551.

Antioch Lions were collecting donations and passing out candy Oct. 10 and 11. Certainly two of the younger people collecting donations were Tommy Obenauf and Kyle Obenauf. They were stationed outside the First National Bank of Chicago drive-through facility. They donate time through a St. Peters Church program that requires about 20 hours of volunteer service. "It's fun to do," said Tommy Obenauf. He collected donations and gave away rolls of candy. There were young people at other locations collecting money. Kyle Obenauf said, "They're all at the banks." He had no problem asking people for donations. "I like it."

Barbara Porch of Choosey Child sold out her own supply of Antioch Sweatshirts the first week she had them. "Sales are strong," she said. People who want to buy one now can still find a selection at Innovative Screen Print, Olde Tyme Deli, Crafters Gallery, and The Gift Basket. "The weather will soon be good for wearing them," Porch said. "When we place a new order, we'll get some medium and extra-longs." The sweatshirts have a colorful storefront design on the back and front of the shirt. Main Street and Lake Street business signs on the storefronts personalize the shirts for Antioch.

If you have interesting information or anecdotes to submit for "Our Town" call staff reporter Ken Patchen at 223-8161, ext. 131 or e-mail, edit@lnd.com."

Ben Franklin expands Hobby Dept.

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Two of the Chicago area's most elite modeling clubs will be present Saturday, Oct. 18, to demonstrate what a truly serious hobby habit can do for a person. The show will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the new Ben Franklin Home Accents Hobby Dept. at 455 Lake Street.

Trains, planes, and automobiles are some of the products stuffed into the new Hobby Dept., which had its grand opening, Oct. 11.

The model show will display some very beautifully crafted work by experienced hobbyists, according to Kevin Meixell, a sales representative for United Model Distributors, Inc.. "Many of these models are worth in the five and ten thousand dollar range," said Meixell, who has seen the show previously.

The Ben Franklin Hobby Dept. opening is the most recent in a summer-long series of store openings and business expansions in the Antioch business community. The Hobby Shop opening is in response to a trend that the store's owners have seen building for a few years.

"We've been expanding that department at a pretty rapid pace for the past five years," said Donald C. Marski. He and Jane Marski are the owners of the large Ben Franklin home accent retail business.

Marski said there has been a resurgence of interest for trains by adults who now have grandchildren. He has also had much greater interest in hobby products. "We noticed our sales continued as we expanded," he said. Since it was necessary to expand another department on the main floor of the business, he took this opportunity to create a store-within-a-store.

"Saturday we're having local modeling clubs come in and display their made-up models," he said. The two clubs are the C.A.R.S. in Miniature Club and the Lakes Region Scale Modelers Club. The displays will feature air brushing demonstrations, a presentation of dioramas, military models, and figures.

"We're going to be very sensitive to customer's requests," Marski said about his plans to stock the Hobby Dept. "Customers have driven this store since my wife and I have owned it." He said the people who work in the Hobby Dept. are very knowledgeable. There are two "railroaders" and one is a "plastic models" person. The sales people are Wayne Willis, Bob Gile, and John Skrypnik.

"We pride ourselves on having sales people who are knowledgeable and know the product. That is true throughout the store. People want to know how to work with these products."

The Hobby Dept. has a strong assortment of trains and rolling stock, as well as rockets, plastic kits for cars, and military equipment. The store also has metal die-cast collectibles for sale.

The Hobby Shop hours are the same as the Ben Franklin Store, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Saturday 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sunday 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. People may also call the store at 395-3355. Information is also available at the web site (www.ben-franklin-antioch.com). The web site provides product information and has an e-mail feature for feedback.

Donald C. Marski has a large model railroad layout in his new Hobby Dept. inside the Ben Franklin Home Accents store at 455 Lake Street. Clothe a scarecrow Old clothes for the Scarecrow Building Contest, which benefits the Mental Health Association, should be donated to the Community Development Department at the Community Building. The donations will be accepted until the start of the scarecrow building contest, Oct. 18, between JJ Blinkers and Canton Tea Garden on Main Street.

Howl needs helpers

Halloween Howl is a volunteer activity for community children. Laurie Stahl, Village parks and recreation coordinator, can provide details about where to volunteer to help make the event a success. She can be reached at 395-2160.

ACHS Choir, Band to hold concert

The Antioch Community High School Choir and the Band will perform Oct. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Auditorium. Admission is $3 for adults and $2 for students. Both the Choir and Band will perform in the concert. The Choir performance will include music from Madrigal, A Cappella, Concert, Advanced Treble, and Freshman Girls Glee. The Band will perform as Concert and Wind Ensemble. Tickets are available at the door.

Child safety stickers

The Antioch Junior Woman's Club will distribute CHAD stickers Oct. 24 and 25 at Halloween Howl. The stickers provide emergency rescue people with immediate identification of a child in a safety seat. The stickers are available at the Happy Ghost site near JJ Blinkers.

Lindenhurst Police Officers provided assistance to Gurnee Police Officers October 12 at 4:45 a.m. to help apprehend three people wanted for aggravated battery with a firearm. A radio call on the Illinois State Police Emergency Radio Network identified a 1994 black Mustang known by Lindenhurst officers to be located in the 500 block of Madison Lane. Three offenders turned over to the Gurnee Police Department were: Learvin C. Sanbrano, 19, of Lindenhurst, Richard S. Brown, 18, Lindenhurst, and Michael S. Mazeikis, 19, of Round Lake.

Lindenhurst teen shoots Chicagoan outside restaurant

An argument involving two groups in separate vehicles led to a shooting with two Lindenhurst residents later charged.

The two groups were 10-15 feet away from each other when an argument ensued at a Burger King restaurant across from Six Flags Great America on Oct. 12.

When the incident was over, Michael Principato, 21, of Chicago, was shot in the stomach area and taken to a Waukegan hospital, where he underwent surgery.

Charged by police in the shooting were Learvin Sanbrano, age 19, of 532 W. Madison Ln., Lindenhurst. He was charged with aggravated battery with a firearm. A passenger in his vehicle, Richard "Sheldon" Brown was charged with obstruction of justice.

"It had to do with someone in the shooter's car looking at a girlfriend of someone in the victim's car," said Gurnee police Investigator Jay Patrick.

The restaurant was busy at the time and commerce continued there and at nearby restaurants.

"They were allowed to remain open after we cordoned off a large area of the parking lot area," Patrick said.

A .22 caliber hand gun is believed to be used. The weapon had not been retrieved by police as of the next day. Principato was listed in serious condition following surgery and is expected to survive.

The victim was transported to St. Therese Medical Center by Gurnee Fire Dept. personnel.

The suspect was arrested at his Lindenhurst home by Lindenhurst police.

"The license plate of the vehicle was a character off, but it matched the description given," Patrick said.

FBI catches Johnsbury fugitive in Colorado

By JEFF PATERSON
Staff Reporter

Police report that a search for two Johnsbury area children begun in September has ended this month with the arrest of their mother by the FBI in Colorado.

Missing since Sept. 5, Stephanie T. Kuhl, 39, of 1100 River Terrace was arrested in Loveland, Co. by FBI agents from Fort Collins, Co. in connection with two warrants for child abduction.

The mother of the children, Kuhl was under a court order not to leave the state with them. When Kuhl and the children were discovered missing, warrants were issued and FBI agents in Rockford obtained a federal warrant for her arrest on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for the child abduction.

The search for Kuhl extended from Johnsbury to McHenry, Burbank and Summit in Illinois, through several towns in North Dakota and then into Colorado.

Following Kuhl's arrest, the children were returned to their father, who was granted temporary custody when Stephanie left the state.

Kuhl's bond has been set at $75,000 and she is currently in custody in Colorado.

Woodland investigates power tool usage after student is injured

Industrial arts classes are continuing, but no power tools are being used at Woodland Middle School.

An eighth-grader required medical treatment for injury suffered when a piece of wood struck him in the hand. Jason Klein returned to class later in the afternoon of Oct. 8.

"The students are not using the power tools until an investigation can be made on this minor accident," said Kenn Sinclair, school spokesperson.

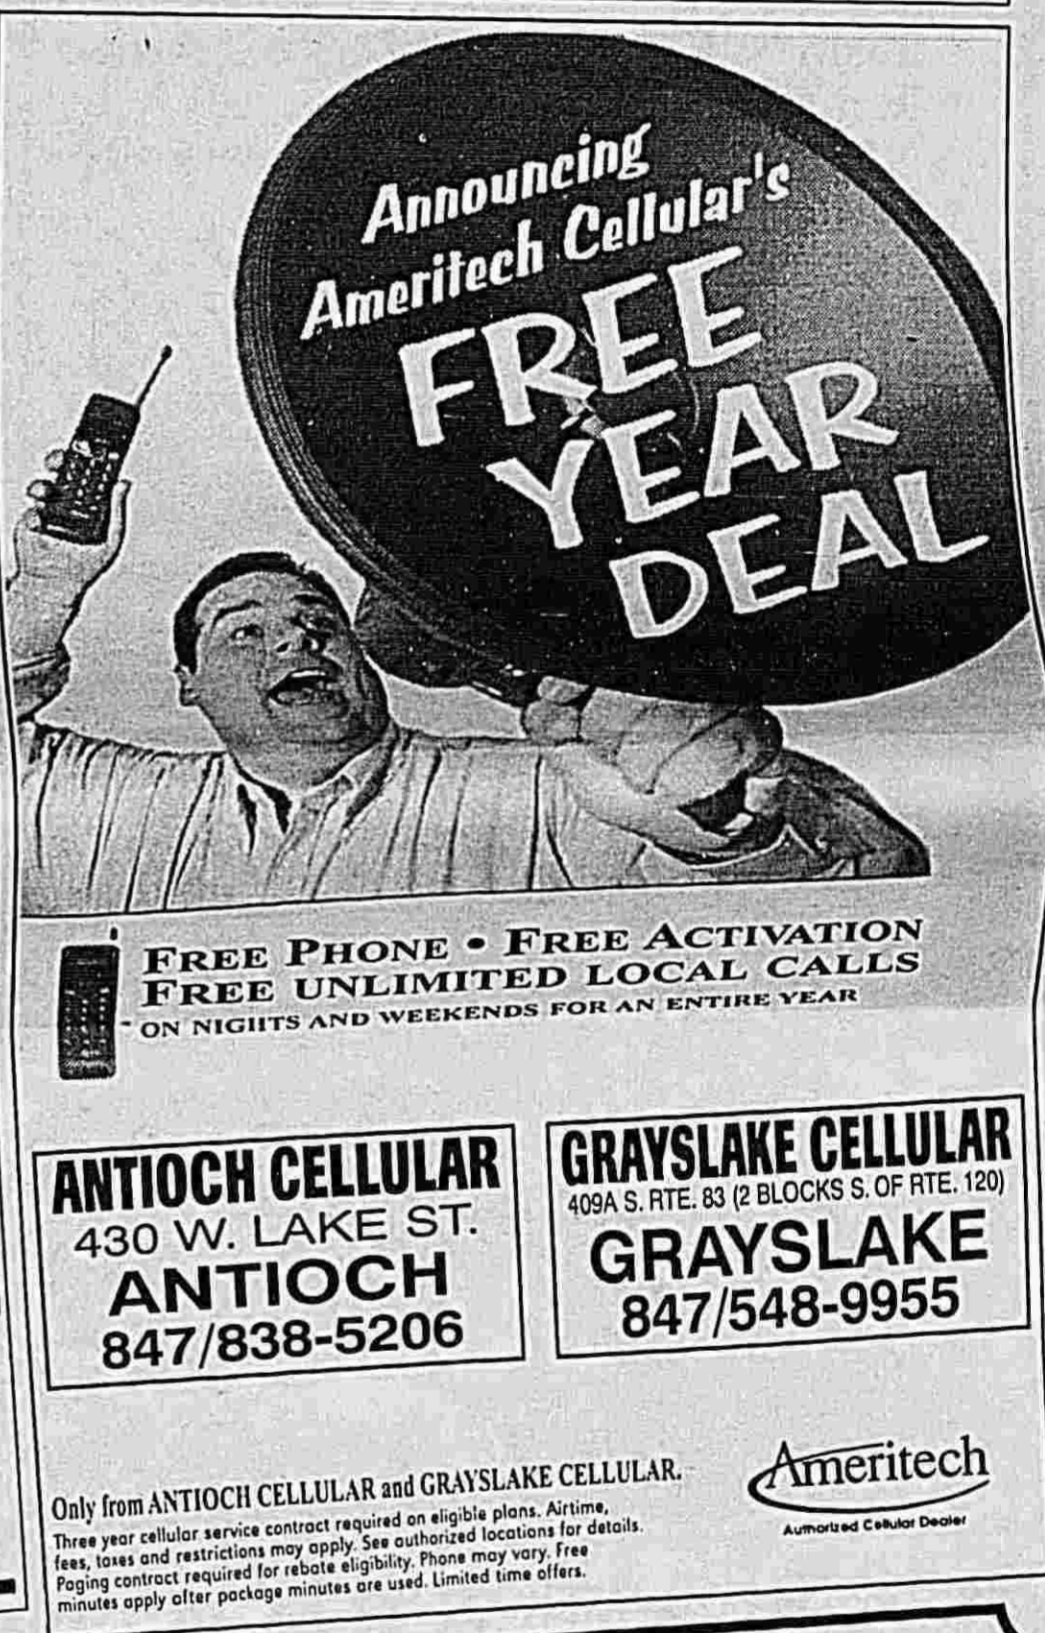

The student's class was making birdhouses.

Students learn proper safety procedures and wear safety goggles when in the classes. Spotters are on hand as students use the power tools as well as a teacher observing the classroom. The teacher in Klein's class took him to the nurse's office, then Klein was treated at a nearby acute care center. The fire department was not called to the school.

The exploratory course is open to sixth, seventh and eighth graders. Other such courses given in a six-week period include Spanish, home economics and art.

Lions offer free hearing tests

Free public hearing tests will be offered by the Antioch Lions Club on Oct. 22, from 9 a.m. to noon, at the municipal water tower on Toft Avenue.

"Vision and hearing has always been a primary interest of Lions," said Antioch Lion Don Skidmore. "Hearing has always been a part of it, although you don't hear too much about it."

The tests are offered about every two years in conjunction with Lions Foundation of Illinois. The local club provides people to help with the testing and a location. It takes a few minutes and 20 people an hour can be accommodated.

"Things go relatively fast," Skidmore said. The screening is for hearing sensitivity. "Those who do not pass the screening are encouraged to seek professional assistance to evaluate their hearing needs," Skidmore said.

The program is oriented towards adults, but the Lions will screen children with a parent's permission.

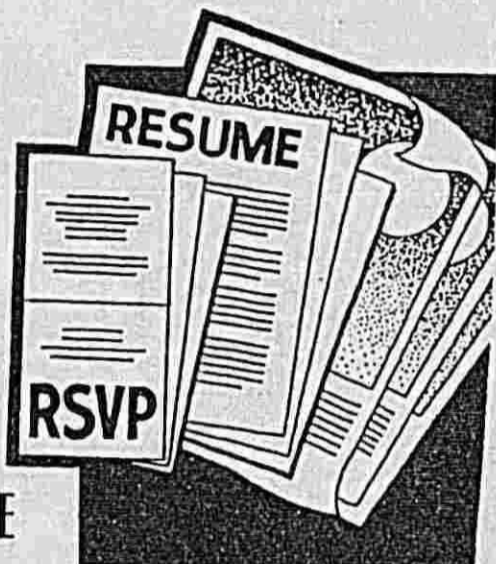

"We've had the hearing van here a number of occasions just as we've had the vision van."

"We're trying to raise awareness of the public to be concerned about hearing and, for those who need it, to seek further help."

Loyal Order of Moose Lodge 525 Boy Scout Troop 92 is sponsoring its Oct. 19 Spaghetti Dinner at the Lodge from noon to 7 p.m. One of the activities the dinner helps support is summer camping experience. Lined up for a summer photograph are adults Paul Green, Rick Paddock, Gary Klean. The scouts are: Eric Green, Josh Paddock, Kevin Klean, Brian Weston, Rod Wirth, Matt Colby, John Landrum, Conrad Adkins, Ricki Klean, Chad Nevitt, Ervin Nevitt, Allan Portzen, Michael Dewar.

Scouts seek summer fun with spaghetti funds

Summer camp provides the opportunity for scouts to work on skills that earn badges. It is their spaghetti dinner that provides some of the funding to keep the troop going during the year. One event is long past. The other is coming up Oct. 19.

Antioch Boy Scout Troop 92 will host its 37th Annual Spaghetti Dinner at Antioch Moose Lodge 525 from noon to 7 p.m. The donation is $4.75 for all, except children 5 and under who are free.

The scout troop spent two weeks at Camp Owasispe, Mich., this past summer, according to Scoutmaster Dave Edwards.

"Sixteen scouts collectively earned 66 merit badges in areas such as basketry, camping, canoeing, cooking, environmental science, fishing, forestry, horsemanship, fish and wildlife management, leather work, mammal study, nature, orienteering, pioneering, reptile study, rowing, soil and water conservation, swimming, wilderness survival, and woodcarving," according to Edwards.

The troop also earned awards as well as special patches. The Baden Powell Award was earned for improving their campsite.

"Matthew Colby earned a Cope I Challenge patch for a half-day of working on such things as working together and team trust," according to Edwards. He noted that Kevin Klean earned a Cope II Challenge T-shirt for a full day of working with other boys as a team while wall climbing and repelling.

As a group, Troop 92 also completed a high adventure trek that involved hiking and camping for 27 miles in the Porcupine Mountains in early August.

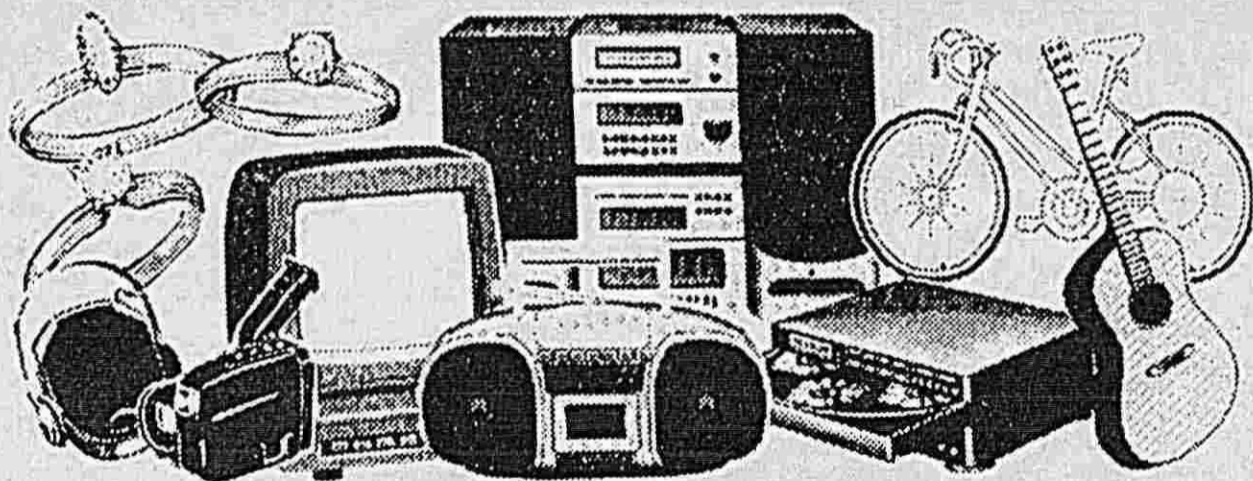

"Camp Owasispe provides a wealth of opportunities for scouts to acquire knowledge and skills in the outdoors, to obtain individual and team leadership experiences, and to have lots of fun," noted Edwards.

Troop 92 meets at the Antioch Scout House on Tuesday evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. Information about the troop is available from Scoutmaster Edwards at 395-7914.

The Moose Lodge is 3 miles west of Route 59 on Route 173 in Antioch. The meal includes cole slaw, bread and butter, and a drink. Tickets are available at the door.

Camp Owasispe is located just north of Muskegon near Whitehall. It is one of the largest scouting reservations in the United States.

Through my job here at the bank, I'm able to meet a large number of people. I have many interactions with so many people through business, through donations. I like that.

What I like best about my job: That there is a wide variety of things to do. It is never the same two days in a row. Never.The secret to my success is: Keeping up to date with what is going on in the financial industry.I relax by: Playing with my children. That is completely relaxing.My perfect day would be: Just going for a drive with my wife.Last book I read: "Los Alamos" by Joseph Kanon. I have now started "Underworld" by Don DeLilloFavorite TV show is: "Buffy the Vampire Slayer." It is just fun.Favorite video is: "The English Patient."Favorite movie is: I just went to see "L.A. Confidential." It was written by James Ellroy, so I plan to read some of his books.Favorite restaurant: Twin Oaks (in Wilmet.) It's nice. Not too costly. It is relaxing. They will make custom dishes. I like the fillet with bearnaise sauce and crabmeat on top.Favorite music: The Blues.Favorite band or musician: John Lee Hooker. Grant to help at-risk seniors find careers

Staff Reporter

Three schools in the Antioch Community High School District begin work this week with eligible at-risk senior students to assure their graduation and success with further schooling or employment.

The multi-year Jobs for Illinois Graduates Program will give the school district resources to counsel senior students who need help to continue their education, to obtain employment, or to enter the military.

"We're kicking it off this week," said Kent Sullens who prepared the grant application with Gerald Pitz for the Antioch Community High School. They work for the Allendale Foundation in Lake Villa.

The requested amount for the Jobs for Illinois Graduates Program is $63,029. "It is designed to be funded for three to four years, but could be funded indefinitely," Sullens said. "This could be indefinitely carried, depending on allocation of funds."

The program will work with senior students in the district to assure that they graduate and then counsel them to get started in a career, the military, or additional educational opportunities. "It was designed to serve any at-risk student in the district who could meaningfully use these types of services," Sullens said.

Counselors will work with students to remove academic deficiencies. They will also work with students to develop personal traits needed to be successful in the work place. To do both of these types of counseling, students in the program will be given assessment tests to help them identify their options related to work preferences and abilities. Career goals will be established. Classroom work will be designed to help students correct deficiencies. Volunteer work programs will help program students develop further their work skills and assess career options. Senior students will have the opportunity to work and earn school credits at the same time. Upon graduation, students will be eligible for nine months of assistance to help them achieve success in doing what they chose to do.

"The program is designed to make a long-term impact on a student's career," said Sullens. "We're trying to make a long-term impact for employability."

The program will benefit approximately 30 or 40 students at Antioch Community High School, Gateway Foundation, and Allendale School. The program supplements existing work done by the school district with students to prepare them for post secondary education, the military, or employment.

"I feel like we've had good success with many students. Some went to Junior College. Some went into the military. Some went into steady employment in surrounding communities," Sullens said.

The District received notification that it was one of 64 school districts selected for the grant program in Illinois. Gerald Pitz, who originally identified the program opportunity for the schools in the district, told District 117 School Board members on Sept. 4 that there are students "that might benefit from something other than the traditional type of education."

School Board President Phillip A. Delany said, "It sounds like a great opportunity for everybody." This week the school district has obtained from the state the curriculum of 30 basic life-skills competencies that people in the program are expected to know. Sullens said the district has worked together well to obtain the grant and will work well to implement its objectives. (Business Manager Bill) Ahlers and (Superintendent Dennis) Hockney were very supportive. Everything I needed, they helped me get it," Sullens said.

Lions are always doing something good

I got a nice call from Don Skidmore who asked me to tell all you folks out there about a hearing screening the Antioch Lions Club, in conjunction with the Lions of Illinois Foundation, will be providing. The screening check is a very basic test of hearing sensitivity which is conducted by a hearing technician assisted by Lions Club members.

The free hearing checks, for any adult wishing to participate, will be on Wednesday, Oct. 22, from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Village parking lot. The hearing van will be parked by the water tower on Toft Street. Those who are found to have significant hearing loss will be encouraged to seek further professional help. This is a wonderful opportunity for adults of all ages to have their hearing assessed at no cost. Seems like this would be a good time to bring your spouse down and check on whether or not they really can't hear you or they have chosen to just tune you out.

Belated birthday

First birthday business at hand is to wish a belated Happy Birthday to young Trenton

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

Lynn Pringle

Michael Hartley who turned a whole two years old back in September. Mom had called me with the information a while back but the September Birthday list had already been submitted but mom really wanted a news clipping to put in Master Hartley's baby book. (Must be her first born because everyone knows you barely fill in name, birthday, weight and height in any children's baby book after number one). So just for you Trenton—Happy second birthday, we hope you received lots of boy toys.

Current birthdays

And now on to those of you who will be howling at the moon on your special day this October. A Happy Birthday to all you ghosts and goblins. And just a word from the wise to those of you planning any kind of celebration: When entering the birthday boy or girls home with a hand full of string held helium-filled balloons, make sure the ceiling fan is not on. The balloons will lost that battle every time, honest. Happy, happy: Don Bergrl, Dorothy Bies, Jamie Brausam, Briaa Dembinski, Larry Edelman Jr., Russ Fairchild, Marc Fechtner, Dan Filips, Joey Giaimo, Sara Groh, Father Hanley, Ryan Hansen, Justin Kasprzak, "Our Pal Al" Alex Ladin, Eddie Lindstrom, Ursula Martens, Alex McCameron, Charissa Misch, Shondra Moon, David Mozal, Debi Mozal, Joey Nava, Amanda O'Connor, Brett Paramski, "Miss" Lois Petyskowski, "Grandma" Marguerite Pringle, "Aunt" Karen Schreiber, Nicole Schaller, Meaghan Shannahan, Kirsten Smith, "Uncle" Frank Smith, Paige Tybor, Christine Vos, Patti Vos.

Volunteers hold key to July 4 committee

By KENNETH PATCHEN
Staff Reporter

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug presented 16 new volunteer keys to members of the Independence Day Celebration Committee at the Oct. 6 village board meeting. A certificate of recognition was also presented to honor their contributions for creating a successful community event.

"We could not have the July 4 celebrations without the work of the committee," Shineflug explained before she presented the recognition awards.

Those who were recognized include: Tom and Cathy Shaughnessy, Billie Horton, Phil Lindberg, Cheryl Mateja, Maureen Ryan, Tom Kessell, Jolene Wulf, Greg Henning, Vickie Axton, Meg Ortiz, Laurie Stahl, Eric Olson, Myrna Ferguson, Jack Miller, and Claude LeMere.

Shineflug presented for the first time gold-colored lapel-pin keys to recipients: "We do appreciate it from the bottom of our hearts, for the entire village board," Shineflug said.

The award certificate was presented in recognition and appreciation of their dedication and service to the citizens of Antioch.

State Bank of the Lakes employees celebrate 25 years

State Bank of The Lakes celebrates the 25th anniversary of two employees this month.

Florence Babusek and Carolyn Blanchette each started work for the bank in October 1972.

Babusek started as an executive secretary. She held that position until 1980 when she was appointed supervisor of new accounts. In June, 1982, she was promoted to marketing director and became assistant vice-president of marketing in 1987. Babusek is now the director of purchasing.

Involved in many organizations, she is currently a member of the Antioch Woman's Club.

Blanchette arrived at the bank with four years of experience in commercial lending, trust, and real estate services from Illinois State Bank of Chicago. Her early responsibilities included extensive customer service in areas of major investments, the purchase and sale of government and corporate securities, stocks and bonds and new accounts.

Blanchette was appointed operations officer in 1977 and trust officer in 1981 when the bank was granted trust powers. In June, 1987 she was appointed assistant vice-president of the bank. This involves responsibility for trust administration.

Blanchette is active in the bank's 55 Plus program. She plans and frequently escorts trips with senior citizens, from one-day tours and overnight excursions to extensive vacations.

She expressed a strong appreciation for the people she has met during her years at the bank. "It's difficult to sum it up, but I think it's the wonderful people I've met through my job within the community and the great people I work with, all of whom have become my extended family."

State Bank of The Lakes has branches in Lindenhurst, Grayslake, and Antioch.

Antioch hydrant flushing starts

M. E. Simpson Co. of Valparaiso, Ind. and Grayslake will be flushing Fire Hydrants for the Village of Antioch starting on Oct. 9, and will be completed by the end of October. The hours of the flushing will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Door tags will be passed out in each neighborhood in advance of the flushing so residents will know in advance when the flushing will occur. During this time the residents may experience discoloration of the water. Do not do laundry during the flushing dates and times in your neighborhood.

After the flushing program, it is recommended that all the taps be flushed in your home and business including your washing machine before using. Any inquiries can be answered by contacting the Village Water Dept. or M.E. Simpson Co. at (800) 355-1521, toll free.

I was worried that hospitals are just big businesses run by nameless faces who care more about the state of the dollar than the state of my health.

Until I went to Victory.

Compassion—the Victory difference.

Victory Memorial Hospital is a not-for-profit hospital. We're concerned about costs, of course. But we're not just "big business." For over 100 years, we have put our patients and the community first.

Our primary concern is taking care of you in sickness and in health. When you're in pain or feeling ill, we understand. We recognize your desire to get better, but also your need to have quality health care delivered with a human touch.

Our nurses and other caregivers, in fact every member of Victory's staff, have a common goal—to treat each patient and visitor to Victory Memorial Hospital with compassion, courtesy, respect and excellent service.

Choose Victory. You'll recognize the difference.

Taking the sting out of cold weather driving

Let's face it, winter driving is no joy ride. Whether you're driving to your local supermarket or trekking from Sioux Falls to Chicago, winter weather conditions can present treacherous obstacles for any driver, especially those heading out unprepared.

To ensure that you aren't left out in the cold this winter, the ABS Education Alliance suggests some ways to make driving this winter a safer and less stressful experience.

Don't overlook the importance of vehicle maintenance

Winter conditions can take a toll on vehicles and present some hefty mechanical problems. That's why one of the smartest things you can do as a driver is to give your vehicle a winter check-up and/or tune-up. Like many Americans, you may be inexperienced in car maintenance. If this is the case, make sure you take your car to a reliable automotive technician whom you or someone you know trusts.

When you bring your vehicle in, ask your technician to make the following in top condition: brakes, tires, radiator, windshield wipers, battery, electrical system, headlights/tailights, emergency flashers, directional signals, ignition, defroster, and exhaust system.

Be prepared for the worst

If your trunk is loaded with a blanket or sleeping bag, candles and nonperishable food items, you're on the road to surviving winter driving this season. It's also a good idea to include:

- first aid kit
- jumper cables
- tire inflator
- shovel
- tool kit
- matches
- cellular phone
- flashlight with extra batteries
- tire chains
- rope
- ice scraper, snow brush
- gloves, hats, boots
- road flares
- bag of sand or kitty litter

Once you have winterized your vehicle and packed your survival kit, here are some tips to help you arrive safely at your destination:

Know your brakes

Does your car have an anti-lock brake system (ABS)? It's important to know what type of brakes you have because vehicles equipped with ABS require different braking techniques in unplanned stops than those with conventional brakes. Anti-lock brake systems are one of the most important and recognized safety features on any car, especially in difficult or hazardous winter driving conditions.

There are two types of anti-lock brake systems — four wheel and rear-wheel. Passenger cars and some light trucks may have four-wheel ABS; whereas rear-wheel ABS is found exclusively on light trucks.

When properly used, four-wheel ABS improves vehicle steerability, stability and stopping capability in emergency situations. Rear-wheel ABS is designed to maintain directional stability and prevent the vehicle from skidding sideways in emergencies. To determine if your car has anti-lock brakes, look for an illuminated ABS symbol on your dashboard immediately after starting your engine, check your owner's manual, or ask your automotive service expert.

Winter drivers can benefit from ABS

While ABS cannot prevent all winter slides and skids, it can be effective in providing the ability for a controlled stop on wet paved surfaces and icy or packed snow-covered roads.

When braking on different surfaces, the speed at which each tire rotates can actually be different. This can cause swerving. With ABS, the system's computer monitors the speed of each of the vehicle's wheels, compares them and adjusts brake pressure to each wheel to ensure the car stops in the shortest distance possible under most road conditions.

Even though anti-lock brake systems can stop more quickly than conventional brakes on wet paved surfaces and on icy or packed snow-covered roads, stopping distance can be longer on loose gravel or freshly fallen snow.

Always "brake and steer" when using four-wheel ABS

Unlike conventional brakes which require drivers to pump the brakes to prevent skidding or sliding, four-wheel ABS does the pumping for you automatically at a rate as fast as 18 times per second whenever a sensor detects the start of lock-up on one or more of your wheels.

To engage four-wheel ABS, keep your foot on the brake pedal until steering clear of hazards. Do not take your foot off the brake pedal or pump the brakes because either action will disengage the anti-lock system.

Rear-wheel ABS requires different braking behavior than four-wheel ABS

Rear-wheel anti-lock brake systems prevent the wheel lock of the vehicle's back wheels only. This allows you to maintain directional stability and prevents the rear end from skidding sideways in emergency situations.

The vehicle's front wheels can lock up on rear-wheel ABS systems, just like conventional brakes. If this occurs, you should ease up on the brake pedal with just enough pressure to allow the front wheels to roll again so you can steer.

Practice using your ABS in all weather conditions

It is important to practice using your ABS so that you are familiar with the feedback you will get from the system. You will know that your ABS is activated if you hear mechanical noises and feel some pedal pulsation. This indicates that your anti-lock brake system is working. Do not take your foot off the brake pedal during this feedback; instead, continue to apply firm pressure to the brake.

As a driver, not only should you become familiar with your ABS in a non-emergency situation, such as an open parking lot or drivers' education range, but you should also practice ABS techniques on a variety of road conditions.

For instance, braking with ABS on a snow-covered road will feel different than braking on a normal road surface. Be sure to set aside time for all drivers of your ABS-equipped vehicle to practice using your ABS at the beginning of each season or when there is a significant change in driving conditions. To receive more information and a brochure on anti-lock brake systems, contact the toll-free ABS information line at 800-ABS-8958.

Whether driving with ABS or conventional brakes, here are some tips for safe driving:

Always slow down and increase following distances when driving in bad weather conditions. Tailing other automobiles in any condition is unsafe, but in winter, snow and ice can make stopping distances much longer. In addition, be aware that entrance and exit ramps can be icy even when highway roads or other areas are clear.

Always clean off entire car before driving it anywhere. Keep your windshield, windows, headlights and taillights clean. If snow or salt builds up while driving, stop at a safe place to use a snow brush or scraper. Use the car defroster and a clean cloth to keep the windows free of fog.

Be more observant. Because visibility is often limited in winter weather conditions, slow down and watch for other vehicles. Also make sure all mirrors in your car are properly positioned.

On upgrades, keep far enough behind the vehicle ahead so you won't have to slow down or stop. This will allow you to maneuver around obstacles and to gain a little extra speed at the bottom of the hill to give momentum that will help carry you over the top. At the hillcrest, reduce speed to a minimum, then descend in a low gear with as little braking as possible.

If your vehicle breaks down, don't panic. Pull as far off the road as possible and use common sense. Your greatest personal danger at this point is that of being hit by a passing car. Stay put until help comes, and run your engine and heater for short intervals only, making sure the windows are cracked open.

Either turn on your warning lights or open your hood to signal your emergency situation to other drivers. If you do not have access to a phone, create a "Call Police" sign to hang in your rear window.

If possible, do not travel alone. Even if you are traveling just a short distance, it is best to travel with someone. Let a relative, friend or neighbor know where you are heading and let him or her know your planned arrival time.

Try to travel during daylight hours. Visibility when driving in winter weather conditions is often diminished due to sleet, snow, rain or fog. Therefore, it is even more important to take advantage of driving during daylight. Driving at night, coupled with winter weather, can result in dangerous situations.

Finally, if the winter road conditions prove to be tough, don't feel bad about "staying in" and rescheduling your trip when the weather permits safe driving conditions.

National car care month message: Trade the engine, not the car

Rather than trade their eight year old car, the Mayfields had kept their "Old Faithful" so Brandi would have transportation during her senior year at college. It still looks great and rides well, but the odometer reads 153,000 miles. Tom recently had new brakes, a battery and two new tires installed. But the engine is burning oil, has lost its "zip" and is a little noisy when it starts up in the morning.

Brandi, her dad thought, is a good student who doesn't need car trouble on a holiday trip home. Should they trade up or fix up? As an economics major, Brandi did her own automotive homework. Educated estimates to buy a comparable used car came in at about $12,000 plus tax. Insurance premiums would increase. The eight years newer car looked about the same as the one they already owned, free and clear.

Consulting with her family's trusted auto service tech, she learned that it made economic sense to upgrade the engine, not the car. A remanufactured engine, with a full year's warranty, would cost about $1,800. "Your engine should perform like new for tens of thousands of miles," he told Brandi. "It's completely renewed from the block up," he continued, listing the various new components that qualify this as a remanufactured rather than overhauled engine.

"I don't know much about cars," she admitted, "but I'm intimately familiar with the value of a dollar. Bottom line: 'Old Faithful' has a lot of life in it. Maybe it just needs a new engine." "Not new," corrected her automotive mentor. "It's remanufactured, which costs less and could even be better than new." Brandi is back in school, with her faithful family car dependably "repowered." And the title of her term paper? "Investing in Personal Transportation."

For more information on the subject of remanufactured engines, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Car Care Council, FW97-NEP, One Grande Lake Drive, Port Clinton, OH 43452.

Sculpting a life

Former fireman creates commerical art for Budweiser, Keebler, Hallmark and others

By RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

There is one constant in commercial artist Jim Winn's portfolio, a photo of his daughter. "I spent my life studying art, but when my daughter was born—art didn't have meaning to me anymore," he said. "My daughter is the epitome of creating something. She is in my portfolio as the best work I ever did."

When daughter, Natalie Winn, now 20, was born, Jim was working toward finishing his studies at the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and later the Art Institute of Chicago, where he graduated in 1983 with a bachelor's degree in fine arts.

"I guess, I knew I would likely not work in the art field as a primary occupation, I always figured it would be something I would do as a hobby and when I retired," Winn said. "There wasn't much money in it and I was concentrating on raising my daughter."

So, after graduating from the Art Institute, Winn went to work as a fireman at Countryside Fire Department in Mundelein. He and his wife bought a cottage on Diamond Lake. On the weekends, he created works of art for his daughter.

"One of the guys I worked with at the fire department saw some of the things I had created for my daughter, he ran a shop doing commercial art work and offered me a job," Winn said. "I went from making $4.75 an hour to 25K, I was 34 years old and thought I had hit the big time." Meanwhile, he also continued working part-time as a fireman.

What Winn discovered was that he had a talent for sculpting.

"I had never done sculpture work," he said. "I studied figurative painting and drawing. When I was a kid, growing up on the north side of Chicago, I would look at sculptures and think 'I could do that,' but I had never put my mind to it."

What Winn learned to do was to prepare 3-D art work for use in commercial displays for the point of purchase industry and he has excelled at it.

Winn sculpts figures out of wood, foam, plastic or steel in a 3-dimensional form. The figures are then painted and used by advertising agents in presentations for clients.

"Clients like to be able to see and touch art work for displays," Winn said. "They need to see it in a 3-D form."

Right, some of the various pieces Winn has sculpted the original model designs for include: Mario Brothers, Red Dog, Maxine from Hallmark; Keebler and Nintendo's Donkey Kong. —Photos by Sandy Bressner

KID'S FARE

Halloween lantern procession to be grand spectacle

The City of Chicago and Dominick's Finer Foods will present the First Children's Halloween Lantern Procession and Spectacle created by The Redmoon Theater, set for Saturday, Oct. 25 at 5 p.m.

The procession begins at State and Randolph Streets, heads south on State, turns west on Monroe Street to Dearborn, turns north on Dearborn, and finishes with a 20-minute performance at Daley Center Plaza.

This participatory Halloween procession for school children was inspired by seasonal celebrations in Europe and Mexico.

The Redmoon Theater company will create the procession, which includes six pairs of rolling towers measuring 15 feet high and topped by giant lantern heads. Other giant lantern shapes include grasshoppers, iguanas, gorillas, birds, and mythical beasts.

These designs are all lit from within, and made with flame-treated rice paper and bamboo. Many of the lanterns and effigies to be used in the procession were constructed by talented high school students through the Gallery 37 summer arts program.

In addition, the procession and spectacle will include 50 professional performers from the Redmoon Theater, including dancers, giant puppeteers, jugglers, fire breathers, sword fighters, and skeletons.

Also featured in the procession and spectacle will be the Jellyeye Drum Theatre. With a set of 12 drums built from industrial sewer pipe and 55-gallon oil cans, Jellyeye's unique art combines drumming and movement into an energetic celebration the defies classification. Procession participants and spectators can then watch the 20-minute spectacle at the Daley Plaza Center.

Many of the children in the procession will represent Chicago public and parochial schools that raised the most money "Trick or Treating" for UNICEF last October. They will be in costumes of their own creation and will hold lanterns, noisemakers, and chimes. For further details on the procession, call (312)744-3370.

Make plans now for the upcoming school holidays by attending one of the YMCA Camp Duncan "Kids Day Out" programs.

Kids Day Out Program dates for this school year are as follows: Nov. 10 & 11: Fall break; Dec. 22, 23, 26, 29, 30, 31 & Jan. 2: Winter break; Jan. 19: Martin Luther King Day; Feb. 12: Lincoln's Birthday; March 2: Casimir Pulaski Day; and March 30, 31, April 1, 2, & 3: Spring break.

Each day of the program will take place at 7 a.m. and end at 6 p.m. Activities include archery, hiking, teams course, outdoor education, sports, foosball, crafts, and boating. Winter weather will provide opportunities for ice skating, sledding, ice hockey, and winter sports.

"The program has been developed as a response to our customers' and the surrounding communities' need for safe and fun activities for children on school holidays," announced Craig White, Child Care Director at YMCA

Camp Duncan. Camp Duncan offers opportunity to learn new skills, develop new friendships, renew old friendships, and just have fun.

White directs a staff team of college students and teachers who supervise and participate with the children at all times. "The same team that leads and implements our summer program will successfully direct the "Kids Day Out Program."

Bozo to be at fair

Bozo the clown from WGN-TV's "the Bozo Super Sunday Show" will appear from noon to 1 p.m. at the College of Lake County's Children's Health Fair Oct. 18. The fair will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the physical education center, 19351 W. Washington St., Grayslake.

The fair will also feature the McNulty Irish Dancers, "Flight for Life" emergency medical helicopter, activities for children, health care information from the American Heart Assn. and American Lung Assn., information on pet care and safety, free healthy care samples and blood pressure screening.

Admission is free and open to the public. For information, call 543-2445.

Magic of Nutcracker

The Magic of the Nutcracker will be presented by Dancenter North at Libertyville High School's Butler Auditorium on the following dates: Saturday, Dec. 13, 2 and 7:30 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 14, 1 and 5 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 20, 2 p.m.; and Sunday, Dec. 21, 1 and 5 p.m.

Ticket prices range from $9 to $18 with a discount for students and seniors and groups of 15 or more. Tickets go on sale Sunday, Oct. 19 at 1 p.m. at Dancenter North offices, 540 N. Milwaukee Ave., Libertyville. For more information or ticket order forms, call 367-7970.

Imagination plus

Imagine a place where cars are made from tin cans. Where a tiny finger can change the course of a river, and a ship can sail around the world in a day. Imagine a place big enough to host a child's imagination. It's the new Chicago Children's Museum, with 57,000 square feet dedicated to the curiosity and creativity of children ages one to 12. Children can become artists, scientists, and leaders at the Chicago Children's Museum. Within the museum's doors, children are everything.

Children can make themselves a chair, build a table, or anything they can imagine in Under Construction. Kids can become quiz show contestants in the Face to Face Exhibit. How about answering 911 emergencies? Kids can drive an ambulance and fix broken bones in City Hospital. Other imaginative exhibits include Inventing Lab, Artabounds, Grandparents, The Stinking Truth About Garbage, Waterways, and Treehouse Trails.

The Chicago Children's Museum is open Tuesday through Sunday. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Free Family Nights are every Thursday from 5 to 8 p.m. Admission is $5. The Children's Museum is located at Navy Pier, 700 E. Grand Avenue, Chicago, IL. For more information, call (312) 527-1000.

Hauntings

What promises to be Chicago's largest family-oriented Halloween event will be open now through Nov. 2 at Navy Pier. A unique line-up of Halloween entertainment—including the Pier's first-ever haunted house, plus a pumpkin patch, hayrides, costume contests and trick-or-treat treasure hunts—are part of the exciting new "Hauntings at Navy Pier."

The Skyline Stage will be transformed into the Haunted Sea. Designed for children ages 5 to 12. Admission is $6. Hours are Sundays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Fridays and Saturdays from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The Pier Pumpkin Patch is overrun by a band of pirate chefs. Under the direction of "Julia Childish" and Vincent Van Gourd, children can decorate their own pumpkins. Special pumpkin carving demonstrations are held every Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. and Friday, Oct. 31 from 4 to 8 p.m. Cost is $3 per pumpkin.

Costume contests for kids 12 and under, and adults 13 and older and entire families. Categories for each contest include scariest, most original, funniest, and overall best. Kids contest is at 3 p.m. Oct. 25 and 26 and at 7 p.m., Oct. 31; adults 10 p.m., Oct. 31; family at 6 p.m., Oct. 25 and 26 and 9 p.m., Oct. 31.

For further details, call (312)595-5032.

Prairie Crossing hosts house walk

Prairie Crossing will host Country Living magazine's House Walk, highlighting the 1998 Country Living magazine house of the year, Prairie Crossing's Gage Model, Sunday, Oct. 26 from 1 to 4 p.m.

The House Walk will include tours of select occupied Prairie Crossing homes and several architecturally significant buildings. These include the restored Wright School, one of the last remaining one-room schoolhouses in Lake County; and the renovated, 19th century Byron Colby Barn.

One of the House Walk homes is owned by Michael Sands, PhD, environmental director for Prairie Crossing. The four-bedroom house is located on a half-acre of land that features native prairie landscaping.

Admission is $6 per person and $10 per couple.

Registration will take place in the Byron Colby Barn. All proceeds will be donated to the Liberty Prairie Reserve. Refreshments and entertainment will be provided.

Prairie Crossing is located at 1561 Jones Point Rd. (Route 45), one-half mile south of Route 120 in Grayslake. The Byron Colby Barn is located near the main entrance.

Prairie Crossing is a residential conservation community located on 667 acres of land.

More than 350 acres of the community are comprised of gardens, prairies, farmfields, pastures, nature trails, marshes and lakes. It is dedicated to preserving the open landscape of central Lake County and encouraging daily living in harmony with the environment.

For more information, call 548-5400.

'5 to Show' exhibit

Twenty-two years ago, five Lake County artists decided to show their collected works in an exhibit titled "5 to Show Watercolors." For the show, one of the artists opened his studio to the public so they could see first hand how a professional artist works.

An instant success, the show became an annual event and soon attracted hundreds of art students, critics, collectors and gallery owners. To better identify the show's wider scope, the exhibit was retitled "5 to Show" and expanded to include original works in oil, pastels, ink, etchings, serigraphs and monotypes, as well as watercolors.

The show is limited to five established artists who have won widespread recognition in their fields, and features work by Elizabeth Whitten-Misunas, Skip Wiese, Malcolm Layson and Everett Misunas, all of Waukegan, and Don Daniels, of Lake Forest.

All five are members of the Lake County Art League and have won major awards at numerous juried shows.

This year's show will be held Friday, Oct. 17 through Sunday, Oct. 19 at Layson Gallery, 622 North Ave., Waukegan. Hours are 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. Friday, and 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. It is open to the public and free of charge. For further details, call 336-0149 or 662-6958.

Hawthorn fair

The 19th Annual Hawthorn Holiday Happening Craft Fair, featuring handmade craft items, bake sale, Frosty's secret shop, and entertainment will be held Saturday, Nov. 1 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Hawthorn Junior High School, 201 Hawthorn Pkwy., Vernon Hills. Admission is free. For information, call 549-6830.

'Willow Review'

Editors and contributors of "Willow Review," the literary magazine at the College of Lake County, have been invited to read at the Hawthorn Center Barnes and Noble bookstore from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., Oct. 23. Their reading will be part of "Writers Harvest: The National Reading," a nationwide literary benefit to fight hunger and poverty.

Readers representing CLC are Paulette Roeske, Larry Starze, Evelyn Schiele and Marcia Karlin. A panel discussion will follow the reading. For more information, call 543-2956.

Sugar Plum fair

The St. Anne Women's Club juried arts and crafts show, "The Sugar Plum Fair," will be held at the St. Anne Church Parish Center, 120 N. Elm St., Barrington, Friday, Oct. 17 from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The Sugar Plum Fair offers a wide variety of handcrafted gift and holiday items. A raffle with items donated by the crafters will be held. For further information, call 382-2818.

Early bird craft fair

Early birds can get a head start on their holiday shopping Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 25 and 26, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., at the Lake County Fairgrounds, Routes 45 and 120, Grayslake. Four large exhibit halls on the fairgrounds will be filled with artist and craftpersons displaying and selling their newest items. For further information, call 223-1433 or 356-7499.

Antique program

A class tailored especially to the antique aficionado will be held at Gorton Community Center, 400 E. Illinois Rd., Lake Forest.

"Avoiding Fakes and Forgeries" will be held Thursday, Oct. 23 from 7 to 9 p.m. The fee is $30, and participants will learn how to protect themselves as consumers, about insurance, and buying at auction.

Leading the program will be Mary McLeod and James McGonagle of McLeod and McGonagle Antiques. Interested participants should call 234-6060 to register.

Bead sale

Fall is the time for the Suburban Fine Arts Center semi-annual bead sale. Join hundreds of other bead aficionados Sunday, Oct. 26, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. This event will feature imported, original, glass, antique, unique and unusual beads at the Highland Park Community House, 1991 Sheridan Rd., Highland Park. For further information call, 432-1888.

New visions

Artists of Mexican origin blend the icons and symbols of their three cultures—Mezo-American, Spanish, and U.S. assimilation—in a show opening at the Suburban Fine Arts Center, Friday, Oct. 24. Featured in the exhibit titled "New Visions of an Old Horizon" are Chicago artists Alexander Romero, Oscar Romero, Renato Esquivel, and Fernando Esquivel.

A Day of the Dead (Día de los Muertos) exhibit of altars by contemporary artists will run in the Sunset Gallery at the same time. Day of the Dead is a three day Mexican festival in which dead friends and family are joyously and humorously honored and remembered. A reception for the exhibit with the artists will be held Friday, Oct. 31 at the Sunset Gallery from 6:30 to 8 p.m. The gallery and the art center are located at 1913 Sheridan Rd., Highland Park. For more information, call 432-1888.

A HOTEL MADE OF ICE

by JIM WARNKEN
President, North Star Travel

When reaching a milestone age, (i.e. 30, 40, 50) some of us jump out of airplanes or bungee towers. Still others join cattle drives (remember City Slickers?).

My sister, Kelly, is reaching one of those ages. (I know better than to publish which one). But Kelly is not one for jumping from planes or bungee towers. She's not all that fond of cows, either. Instead, my younger sister wants to celebrate a new decade of her life by flying to a remote part of the Swedish Lapland's and spending the night in a hotel made of ice!

The "Ice Hotel", at which Kelly is going to spend New Year's Day is in the town of Jukkasjarvi Sweden. In addition to the Ice Hotel, Jukkasjarvi boasts the largest underground mountain residence in the world with over 250 miles of underground roads. Jukkasjarvi is also home to the northern-most rocket station and a 400 year old wooden church.

It's most famous claim to fame is, however, the Ice Hotel!

Every autumn these industrious Laplanders get to work with their most abundant natural resources, ice and snow. They take 3,000 tons of the stuff and build a giant igloo.

This isn't an ordinary igloo, though. This one comprises a fairy-tale hotel with walls decorated with hand-carved ice sculptures, an art gallery, a church, a restaurant, a golf room, a movie theater, a sauna and a 45 ft long bar carved from ice called "Absolute Ice."

For around $100 a night ($200 if you want the bridal suite), you get a room with a queen-sized bed made from, you guessed it, solid ice and covered with reindeer skins. In addition to a state-of-the-art sleeping bag, you're also provided with other cold weather gear, since the inside temperature of the hotel must be kept at 32 degrees Fahrenheit.

After a night (which is about the average stay) at the Ice Hotel, guests are awakened with a hot drink, a survival certificate, and a chance to spend additional nights in one of 30 adjacent heated log cabins.

Due to the short season, (the entire complex melts in early spring) reservations to stay at the Ice Hotel must be made early.

Check my column after January 1st and I'll print my sister's review of her stay.

Sculpting: Artist puts fatherhood first

Among the clients, Winn has made sculptures for are: Budweiser, Coors, Miller Brewery, Hallmark Cards, Nintendo, Keeblers and others.

In fact the original carving of a team of Clydesdales he did for Budweiser is said to be hanging in the office of Augie Busch.

Once a client agrees to go forward with a promotion, the sculpture is usually molded and then reproduced for the permanent display.

"I belong to a small fraternity of extremely good craftsmen that work in 40 to 50 different kinds of materials," Winn said. "Model making is a unique business. It is very meticulous work, where accuracy is required. Often times we are working within 1,000th of an inch."

Model makers also work on very tight deadlines. "An artist will usually have months to complete a sculpture," Winn said. "Because everything in the point of purchase industry is usually on speculation, I usually have about a week to com-

Camel.

"I told them I wouldn't do it," Winn said. "My daughter was 14 and I had just caught her smoking. I really felt Joe Camel was targeted at youth and I didn't want to work on the campaign."

Winn told the client as much and waited for the ball to drop and to find out he was no longer sought after in the industry. But it didn't happen. The work kept coming in.

Today, Winn's challenge in remaining employed in the art world is not so much about talent and recognition; he has that. It is about fighting the global war and technology's ability to replace craftsmen.

The point of purchase industry is concentrated in Chicago and Milwaukee. Winn said, of the handful of model makers left in the United States, many of them live in Lake County.

"Lake County is the perfect location, because it is between Chicago and Milwaukee where much of the point of purchase industry is concentrated."

"This has become a global industry," Winn said. "A lot of the work is now done overseas, particularly in China, where they can mass produce the work more inexpensively."

Technology is fast replacing the craftsmanship long done by those in Winn's line of work.

"Today all of the designers are being taught Computer Aided Drafting (CAD) and laser cutting. Right now, the technology has not been able to replace the sculpturing work that Winn is doing, but he says the day is not far away."

"Probably when the group of guys working in the field today retire, it will go the way of machines," Winn said. "I have learned over the years to keep it in perspective. It is only a job. My most important role in life is that as a father."

As for the figurative drawing and painting Winn studied back in art school—"I plan to do that when I retire," he said.

When someone thanks me
after a successful surgery, I tell them,
“It wasn’t just me who saved your life.
It was the entire hospital.”

At Saint Therese Medical Center, you’re not just in the care of one surgeon; you’re in the hands of an entire hospital. Here, you’ll find an overall dedication to comprehensive health care that makes all 962 employees of Saint Therese work as a whole. It’s why everything from a heart catheterization to a scraped knee begins and ends with making the patient, the doctor and everyone involved feel good.

Over the years we’ve received more thank you’s than we can count. A major reason for this recognition is that we’ve assembled an outstanding and highly trained medical staff, including doctors and specialists hailing from some of the top medical schools and teaching hospitals in the country. Saint Therese also boasts the most advanced ambulatory surgical unit and the only inpatient rehabilitation facility in Lake County, a state-of-the-art CAT scanner and an accessible out-patient rehabilitation and sports medical center in Gurnee.

But even our brightest and most celebrated doctors know that, though they may have held the scalpel, they’re not the only ones who had a hand in the outcome.

'Saved by the Bell' star visits 'Planet'

By DAVE SHERMAN
Correspondent

A touch of Hollywood came to Gurnee Friday night as hundreds of Lake County residents turned out at Planet Hollywood for actor Mario Lopez' birthday party.

Lines began to form as early as 3 p.m., when word spread that the former star of "Saved by the Bell" was in the area.

None of the more than 500 fans appeared to be disappointed. After singing "Happy Birthday" to Lopez, the crowd was also treated to a premier clip of "Fever Lake," a video movie co-starring Corey Haim that will be released this weekend.

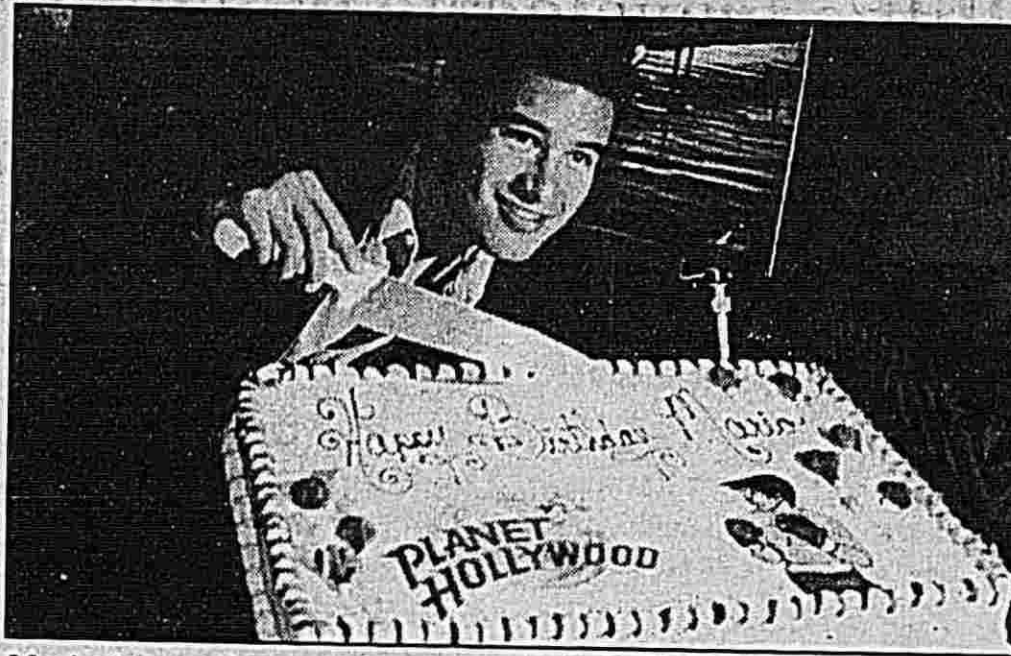

After the clip was shown, the cast of the movie, led by executive producer Jim Kreutzer, autographed and donated a movie prop to the restaurant's growing museum.

According to Kreutzer, "Fever Lake" is "a thriller/suspense movie in line with Hitchcock." The producer's goal was to make a scary movie without having to include sex or gory scenes, which brought them to Lopez.

"Mario is not only a great actor, but also a wonderful person," said Kreutzer. "He was everything I wanted the movie to stand for—clean-cut, wholesome and well-known."

Tons of teenage girls seemed to agree, with some breaking into tears during Lopez' two-hour long autograph session.

To most of the crowd, the main question wasn't about the new movie, but if there would be a "Saved by the Bell" reunion. Many of Lopez' "SBTB" co-stars have gone on to big careers like "Showgirls" Elizabeth Berkly and "Beverly Hills 90210's" Tiffany Amber Thiesen.

"Nothing is in the works right now as far as a reunion," says Lopez. "But you never know."

Planet Hollywood-Gurnee has been open since late-summer and so far has been host to big screen stars Tom Arnold and Whoopie Goldberg.

"We plan to have many more events like this," says Planet Hollywood public relations manager

John Moore. "The only problem is that we don't have very much notice of when the stars will arrive, sometimes we will only have a couple of days to put together an event."

One of the surprise events includes the Grand Opening Gala. More than 300 members of the press alone are expected to attend the grand opening, which usually includes the celebrity owners including Arnold Schwarzenegger, Bruce Willis, Demi Moore or Sylvester Stallone.

Moore does not know when the opening will take place, but he expects it sometime in the next couple of months.

Best of Second City to visit Stevenson High

By SUSAN KLEIN
Correspondent

The Second City, Chicago's renowned improvisational troupe which launched the careers of such comedy greats as Mike Myers, Dan Akroyd, John and Jim Belushi, Robert Klein, Joan Rivers, and Martin Short, will soon be making a hilarious appearance at Stevenson High School to kick off the second season of the "Spotlight on Stevenson" performing arts series.

One of three national touring companies of the celebrated and inventive group will be presenting "The Best of the Second City" in the high school's performing arts center on Sunday, Oct. 26, at 7:30 p.m.

The show is a compilation of classic scenes from the troupe's 38-year history, topical new material, and improvisational games, says Beth Kligerman, administrative director of the resident and touring companies of The Second City.

And the touring troupes always gear part of their performances to the specific audience, she says. "Wherever we go, we like to know what we're walking into."

Event organizers at the high school will be feeding inside info to the troupe to give the show some local flavor, says Jim Conrey, coordinator of public information for Stevenson.

The Second City program is the first of three performances planned for this school year's "Spotlight on Stevenson" series. The Primavera Singers, a regular act at Chicago's Fairmont Hotel, are scheduled for April 26. A third program to be announced, is also scheduled for the spring.

Tickets for "The Second City" show are available through the high school at 634-4000, extension 850. Admission is $12 for adults, $10 for senior citizens and $8 for students.

Proceeds from the performance benefit the Stevenson High School Community Foundation, sponsor of the performing arts series.

Staffed by volunteers from the Stevenson community and headed by Lincolnshire resident Pat Wilder, the foundation was formed three years ago to raise funds for the high school. So far, proceeds from last year's performing arts series have been earmarked for the bi-annual "Odyssey" fine arts program to be held in January. In the future, the foundation plans to also endow scholarships and support other programs. "It takes a while to get things rolling," Wilder says.

Another program to benefit the foundation is a presentation of "James and the Giant Peach."

HOROSCOPE

Aries—March 21/April 20

You feel a little rundown this week, Aries. Cancel some of your social plans, and catch up on your rest. You need it. A loved one looks to you for advice. Be honest. You meet an interesting person later in the week. Try to make a good impression, because he or she has connections.

Taurus—April 21/May 21

This is your week to shine, Taurus. Things go well for you both personally and professionally. You make significant headway toward a personal goal. Don't stop now—you've got the momentum. A close friend needs your help. Don't ignore him or her. Gemini plays a key role.

Gemini—May 22/June 21

You don't know how you feel about a romantic relationship early in the week. One minute, you're happy about it; the next minute, you're upset. Before making a rash decision, take some time to figure out your true feelings. You owe it to yourself and your significant other. A close friend surprises you this weekend.

Cancer—June 22/July 22

The week will fly by, Cancer. You'll be so busy with work and personal plans that you won't have a chance to relax until later in the week. Enjoy this well-deserved rest when it finally arrives. A loved one needs your help with a family matter. Do all that you can for him or her. Libra plays a role.

Leo—July 23/August 23

You feel like you're losing control early in the week, Leo. All of the decisions that you make seem to backfire. Don't get discouraged. You'll be back on top before Friday. Even though a close friend hasn't called in a few days, there's no cause for alarm. He or she has been busy.

Virgo—Aug 24/Sept 22

A business associate asks you to handle a touchy situation this week, Virgo. Don't shy away from the challenge; you know that you are the best person to deal with it. That special someone surprises you over the weekend. Enjoy! Aries and Sagittarius play important roles.

Libra—Sept 23/Oct 23

Let your good nature shine through when you get into a discussion with an aggressive co-worker. Don't let his or her remarks get you upset. Be the bigger person. A loved one tells you about a family problem. Do your best to help resolve it. The person you've been seeing wants to get serious. Think about what you want.

Scorpio—Oct 24/Nov 22

A close friend gets into trouble during the middle of the week. As much as you would like to stay out of the situation, you have to help him or her. Be supportive, and guide him or her through this rough time. Your efforts will be appreciated. A friend reveals his or her true feelings for you.

Sagittarius—Nov 23/Dec 21

You really stick your foot in your mouth at a business meeting, Sagittarius. However, don't get nervous. By remaining calm, you can talk your way out of it. A loved one is feeling down. Try to cheer him or her up. Capricorn plays a key role in your personal life later in the week.

Capricorn—Dec 22/Jan 20

You take a giant step in the right direction when it comes to your career this week. You say all the right things in front of the right person, and a great business offer is on the way. The person you've been dating doesn't call. Don't get upset; someone better will come along.

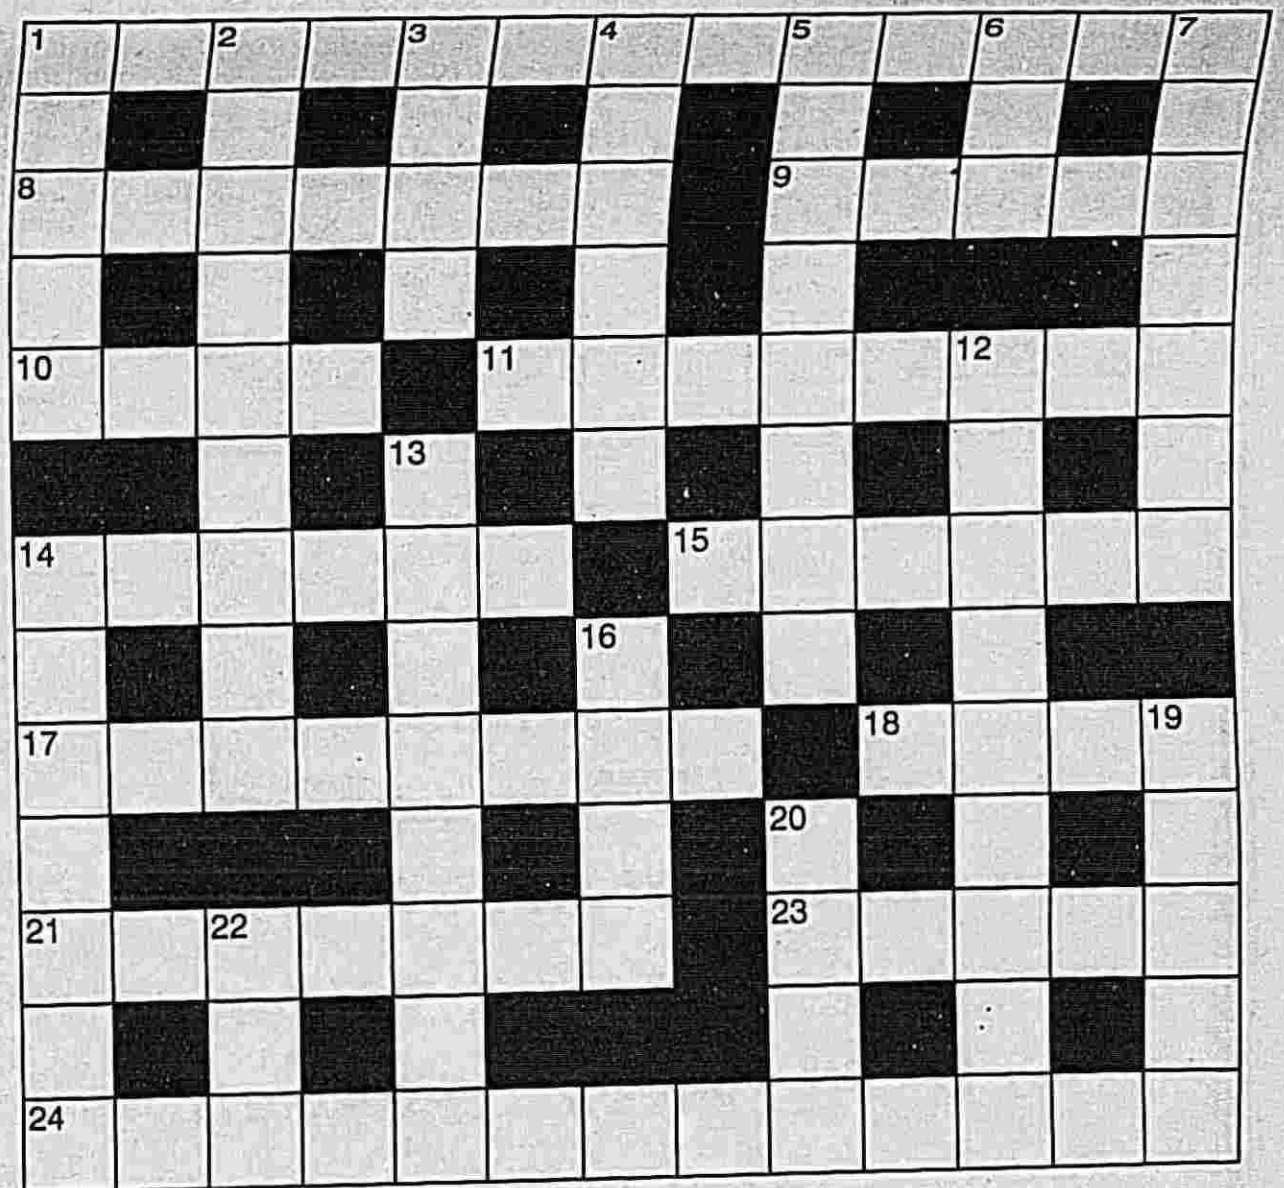

Aquarius—Jan 21/Feb 18

You're on your own early in the week, Aquarius, and you love it. You finally can make a large dent in your long to-do list. Even though you're working hard, you feel invigorated. Use this extra energy to enhance a personal relationship. Cancer plays a key role on Tuesday.

Pisces—Feb 19/March 20

A close friend needs some advice about a personal problem. Be honest, and help him or her make a sound decision. Your help is truly appreciated. A family gathering puts you in the spotlight. Try to make the event fun for everyone, especially yourself. An old friend calls you on Friday.

India

The Peacock India Restaurant, located in the Rivertree Plaza in Vernon Hills, is the cream de la cream of Indian eateries. The Peacock is owned by Shakuntala Chhabria and managed by co-owner, B.K. Bajaj. Bajaj is always on hand to make sure that your dining experience is not only personable but, delivered with quick and attentive service. He takes painstaking pleasure in creating an authentic Indian experience for all guests—whether Indian by birth or an American exploring the cultural flavors of India—all will agree the food is unsurpassable.

Upon entering the restaurant guests will be greeted by a beautifully mounted peacock, the symbol of luck, and your senses will be surrounded by succulent aromatic fragrances steaming from the kitchen. As your meal unfolds, entrancing mood setting music of the sitar and elegant silk paintings depicting a world of yesteryear will deliver you and your senses to India herself! Personable service, excellent food and decor will make each guest feel like royalty.

The Peacock offers a large assortment of authentic Indian entrees, specializing in clay oven baked chicken, lamb and seafood. There's a numerous bread selection consisting of varying versions of the basic and most popular unleavened bread—naan. The Peacock offers a choice of five rice, two with meat, three without. The Peacock also offers 20 vegetarian dishes. Vegetarian entrees brim with fresh tomatoes, cauliflower, okra, beans, peas, eggplant, spinach, potatoes, onions and more. So, whatever fits you or your dining guests palate, everyone can find a delicious treat under one roof from the 87 items listed on the Peacock menu.

Depending on what you order, the dinner entrees are served on hot sizzling platters or in decorative stainless steel bowls cradled by a small copper pot warmer especially brought over from India by Bajaj. The restaurant is equipped with a bar specializing in Indian beers but, also offers basic mixed drinks as well as Mango shakes and sweet or salty Lassi's.

The Peacock is celebrating their sixth anniversary and offers daily, all-you-can-eat, buffet from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. for $6.95. Evenings start at 4 p.m. and run until 10:30 p.m. The Peacock is a full service establishment and offers carry-out, catering and delivery needs. For more information call The Peacock at 816-3100.

Gardening without poisons

I am a product of an activist generation. Recycle, replant, refurbish—etc., etc. I have been gardening since I was a child. I honestly do not remember using poison on my vegetables as a child, and remember as an adult cringing with guilt if I resorted to using insecticides or fungicides.

Many years ago, I made a commitment to exclude chemicals from my gardening practices. I remember my Aunt Sophie using Diazanone on everything—I mean everything. On her lawn, vegetables, flowers even her evergreens. That made no sense to me then, and certainly does not now. She did die from cancer and I often wondered if that random use of poison did not contribute to her disease.

We have reached a critical period, the harm done by the widespread use of poisons has become increasingly apparent. There is a lack of general knowledge between the two extremes of poison and famine. The overemphasis on the chemical approach has obscured many biological, cultural, and physical controls which have gone out of fashion. Hazardous materials should be considered after all other possibilities are exhausted, and used as emergency measures.

When we use chemical controls we not only are killing "bad" insects, but also beneficial ones. The laws of nature provide many biological controls.

Gardeners may lack a general appreciation of the astonishing variety of species and the vast number of living organisms which comprise any community. As I mentioned before, when using chemicals, they do not merely act on the targeted insects, but may affect the survival of other species such as competitors, parasites, and enemies. As a result, the entire population within the plant and animal community may be altered or dislocated. And many times the poisons change the activity of the soil community to reduce the productivity of your crops. The yield of seeds may greatly be reduced.

We need to learn to explore all methods of keeping or creating sufficiently rich plant and animal communities within our gardens. We can create diversity through intercropping and rotating crops.

We all can play a part in developing a bold, new way in our gardening approaches. Give it a shot, wouldn't you feel better knowing you are eating healthy produce from your garden, grown without poison? God knows what you are getting at the market. Think about it—peace, think natural.

Gardening questions can be sent to Lydia Huff, c/o Lakeland Newspapers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030.

CRITIC'S CHOICE

Julie Harris and Charles Durning take the stage of Chicago's Royal George Theater in the award-winning drama "The Gin Game."—Submitted photo

'The Gin Game' a solid revival

The back porch of a frayed nursing home forms the setting for DL Coburn's wistful slice-of-life play, "The Gin Game." It's peopled by two equally weather-beaten characters, Fonsia Dorsey and Weller Martin. Besides their divorced status and declining health, the pair share a common malady: loneliness. Julie Harris and Charles Durning have taken to the stage of Chicago's Royal George Theater to re-create the Tony Award-winning drama. Under Charles Reilly's direction they turn in performances that blend poignancy and comedy.

For a moment, they find strength in one another as they cope against what they describe as "this warehouse for the intellectually and emotionally dead" where funeral arrangements are a hot topic of conversation and the staff seems preoccupied with keeping its clients entertained, whether it's by visiting well-meaning choral groups or the constant barrage of inane TV sitcoms. Durning is ebullient as the cantankerous Weller, whose penchant for solitary fits the view he has of himself as an outsider. Harris, as the prim Fonsia, gradually unveils some of her innermost secrets during several games of gin with her new acquaintance, who becomes more and more rowdy with each losing hand.

In "The Gin Game" the audience learns much about the characters by the way they shuffle—whether its cards or their aging bodies as they dance a waltz.

"The Gin Game," which plays through Nov. 16, is a solid revival. For ticket information, call (312)988-9000.—By Tom Witom

'It's a Dog's Life' grand opening at forest preserve

Celebrate the official opening of the Lake County Forest Preserves new Dog Exercise Area with a day designed just for dogs at Lakewood Forest Preserve near Wauconda, Saturday, Oct. 18, from 10 a.m. to noon.

"It's a Dog's Life" grand opening event kicks off with a ribbon-cutting ceremony followed by a variety of activities for dogs and their "best friends," including a training, tracking and obedience presentation by TOPS in Training Kennel in Gurnee and the Lake County Sheriff's department.

Other activities include a border collie sheep herding demonstration, Pet Parade by Save-A-Pet in Grayslake, Flyball demonstration by BC Dog Training in Mundelein, face painting, raffle prizes, and music. Trainers and groomers will be on-hand to provide information and answer questions.

Dress up your pooch and win a prize in the Best Dressed Dog Contest. If frisbee is their game, your canine buddy could try their luck for prizes in the Frisbee Catching Contest. Free doggie treats and water will be provided compliments of Pine Tree Pet Super Center in Libertyville. The grand opening event is free and open to all ages and breeds.

HEALTH NOTES

Education seminar for parents set

Lake County Center for Independent Living will offer an educational seminar for parents of children with disabilities. The information, ideas, and resources given at this seminar are intended to give parents the basic tools to become an effective advocate for their child in the school system. The parents will learn more about the "Individuals with Disabilities Education Act" and the educational rights of children with disabilities. Cilla Gant, the speaker, is a mother who has gone through the school system with her own disabled child.

The seminar will be Saturday, Oct. 18, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Lake County Center for Independent Living, 706 E. Hawley St., Mundelein. There will be a working lunch with a cold cut tray being provided. For more information or an accommodation, call Pat Lee at 949-4440 VTTY.

Health information fair set for Oct. 18

Dr. Howard Baker and Dr. Bruce Hyman of Suburban Internal Medicine will be holding an open house and health information fair, Saturday, Oct. 18 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The fair will be held at the office, 560 N. Midlothian Rd., Condell Medical Bldg., Suite 400, Mundelein. This event is co-sponsored by Dr. Nenita Javier of Pediatric Care Center. The fair will give the community an opportunity to drop by and meet the physicians and their staff. There will be free blood sugar, cholesterol and blood pressure screenings. Knee, hip, shoulder arthritis screenings will be performed by Dr. Mitchell Sheinkop and the staff of Adult and Pediatric Orthopedics of Vernon Hills. A raffle will also take place with items donated by community businesses. For further information, call 837-8440.

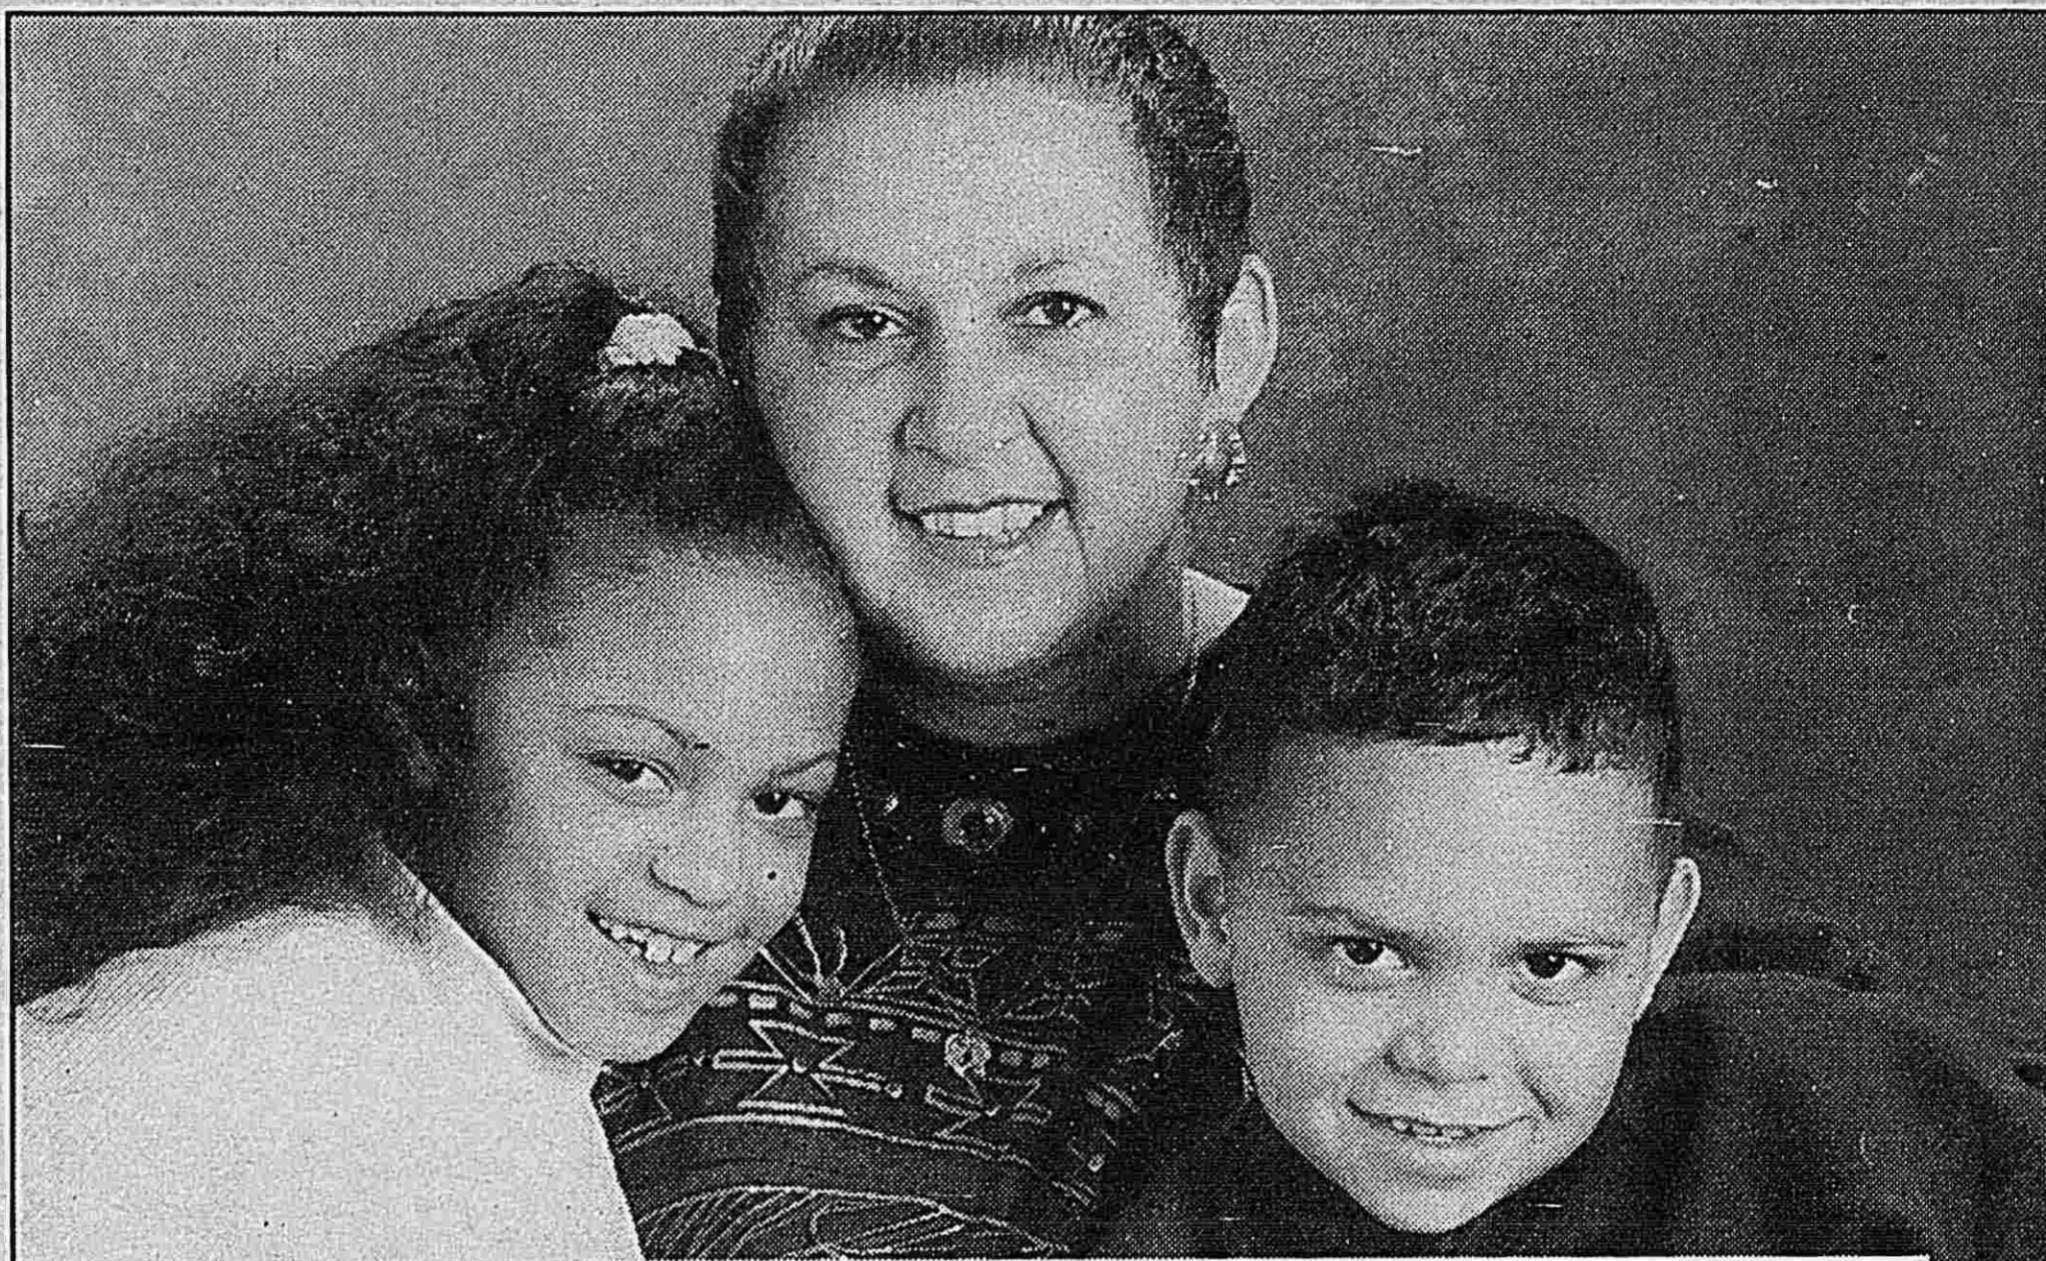

A Safe Place to hold raffle

A Safe Place/Lake County Crisis Center, is holding a raffle in conjunction with its annual dinner meeting scheduled for Oct. 20. Keynote speaker at the event to be held at the Country Squire Restaurant in Grayslake is Lydia Walker, MA, nationally known author and lecturer on domestic violence issues. For more information about the dinner or to purchase raffle tickets which support the shelter, counseling and court advocacy services of A Safe Place, call 249-5147.

Condell health education series

Condell Medical Center will present Women's Pearl of Health Month in October, an education series that includes a variety of topics of interest to women, no matter what age or lifestyle. "Vital Aging: Empowering Change as We Grow," seminar and panel discussion will be held Friday, Oct. 17, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in conference rooms A and B, 700 Garfield Ave., Libertyville. From 10 to 11:30 a.m., Mary Jeanne Clark, MS, director Condell Day Center for Intergenerational Care and Ina Albert, APR, director of Public Relations and Marketing at Condell Medical Center will address the needs for women over 50 in looking at life in the fifth, sixth, seventh decades and beyond as a new beginning; a second middle age; as a time for creative growth and development.

The panel discussion will take place from noon to 2 p.m. with Patricia Katherine Novick, MA, MA, PhD, clinical psychologist and healthy lifestyles coach; Barbara Richardson, Lake County coroner; and Leah Penarvis, PhD, clinical psychologist. For information, call 362-290-5770.

Rose Sajuan's grandkids helped her overcome cancer.

When Rose Sajuan of Waukegan, Ill., found out she had breast cancer in 1996, she knew right away she was going to fight and win, because she had to be here for her grandchildren.

"My family is the most important part of my life, and not being here for them just wasn't in my plans," Rose says.

Rose's family doctor referred her to the Cancer Treatment Centers of America program at Northwestern Regional Medical Center.

"I was very impressed with how open the doctors were. I wanted to be involved in choosing the right treatment for me, and they welcomed that. I especially appreciated having support groups and prayer meetings. That helped me keep a positive attitude, and kept me focused on why I wanted to get well — so I could be here for my family."

The cancer program at Northwestern combines advanced medical treatment with diet planning, vitamin and mineral supplementation, support groups, prayer, and lots of tender loving care.

Find out how we make a difference. Please call Cancer Treatment Centers of America today at 800/940-2822 for more information or to schedule an appointment for a consultation.

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT

Found a house you love? Don't let emotions stop you from asking basic questions

As a home shopper, you are well advised not to be blinded by the obvious charms of the homes you consider. Whether you choose new construction or an older home, you are buying much more than a great kitchen or a terrific floor plan, stresses a top marketing executive at one of the Chicago area's largest home builders.

"Buying a home is a very emotional decision, but if you let emotions control the entire selection process, you're much more likely to end up feeling disappointed," contends Ed Fitch, executive vice president of marketing for Town and Country Homes. "Of course, it is important that you find the home appealing and have a good feeling about the surrounding community. However, it can be a terrible mistake to ignore the practical side of buying a home, and by that I don't mean just the price tag."

Among the questions he encourages buyers of new construction to ask:

- How good is the builder's reputation for quality construction?

"When it comes to quality, a buyer should never rely on the village inspector to make certain the builder is doing the job right," Fitch recommends. "It is the builder's job to make sure his subcontractors do a good job, and the builder should be able to tell you how the work is monitored and inspected."

When asking a builder about quality, notes Fitch, the worst answer is no answer at all.

"A builder with a good quality assurance program will gladly tell you about it in detail, and brag about any quality awards they've won. For example, any of our Town and Country sales staff will be quick to explain our quality assurance program and tell a prospect that we won the first National Housing Quality Award a couple of years ago," he says.

- If a home has a warranty, find out if the builder is self-insured or holds third-party coverage. Ask who will be responsible if problems arise. A warranty from a defunct company is useless, so the company's track record, longevity, and reputation is important.

- Ask about options, from siding, tile and carpet selections to alternative exterior elevations. Fitch points out that where new communities offer few choices, homes end up looking alike and resale values could be adversely affected.

"Ask if the builder has a self-enforced anti-monotony policy," he suggests.

Of course, many questions should be asked whether you are looking at new construction or an existing home. For example, Fitch urges all buyers to ask just what impact the location of their prospective new home will have on their daily commute time to work.

Another area in which buyers often fail to ask enough questions, observes Fitch, involves local government services—schools, parks, roads, sewers, etc.

"With schools, it is not merely a question of whether or not they have a good reputation, though that is important," says Fitch. "Equally vital is the level of continuing community support for the school system. For example, what happened to the last school bond referendum brought before the voters? How much money is allocated to each student by the local district?

The local park district also deserves your scrutiny, according to Fitch. Before moving into a community, he urges home seekers to ask about the local park district and its programs; find out if it is well funded; review its plans to keep pace with community growth.

He also believes it is important to learn about the municipal government and its plans for the future.

"In established communities with little new development, there is often a perception that things won't change, but that is not always true. The home you are considering could be on a street that will be widened, or the two quiet commercial buildings down the road soon may be replaced with busy shopping center," Fitch notes. "In newer communities where ample growth is anticipated, it is important to find out if the local municipality has an intelligent master plan and a sound plan review process."

Finally, Fitch urges buyers not to put too much stock in one common measure of housing value: cost-per square foot.

"Unless you're confident that the homes you are comparing are of similar quality, cost per square foot can be a very misleading measure," he says. "Which would you rather have, a home priced at $95 per square foot that will have problems in a year or two, or a well-built home that costs $105 per square foot?"

Town and Country Homes currently is offering single-family homes at communities in Buffalo Grove, Lake in the Hills, Mundelein, Naperville and Westchester.

Gambling raid nets 8 arrests

Four Fox Lake, one Lake Villa business targeted after two-year investigation

By JEFF PATERSON
Staff Reporter

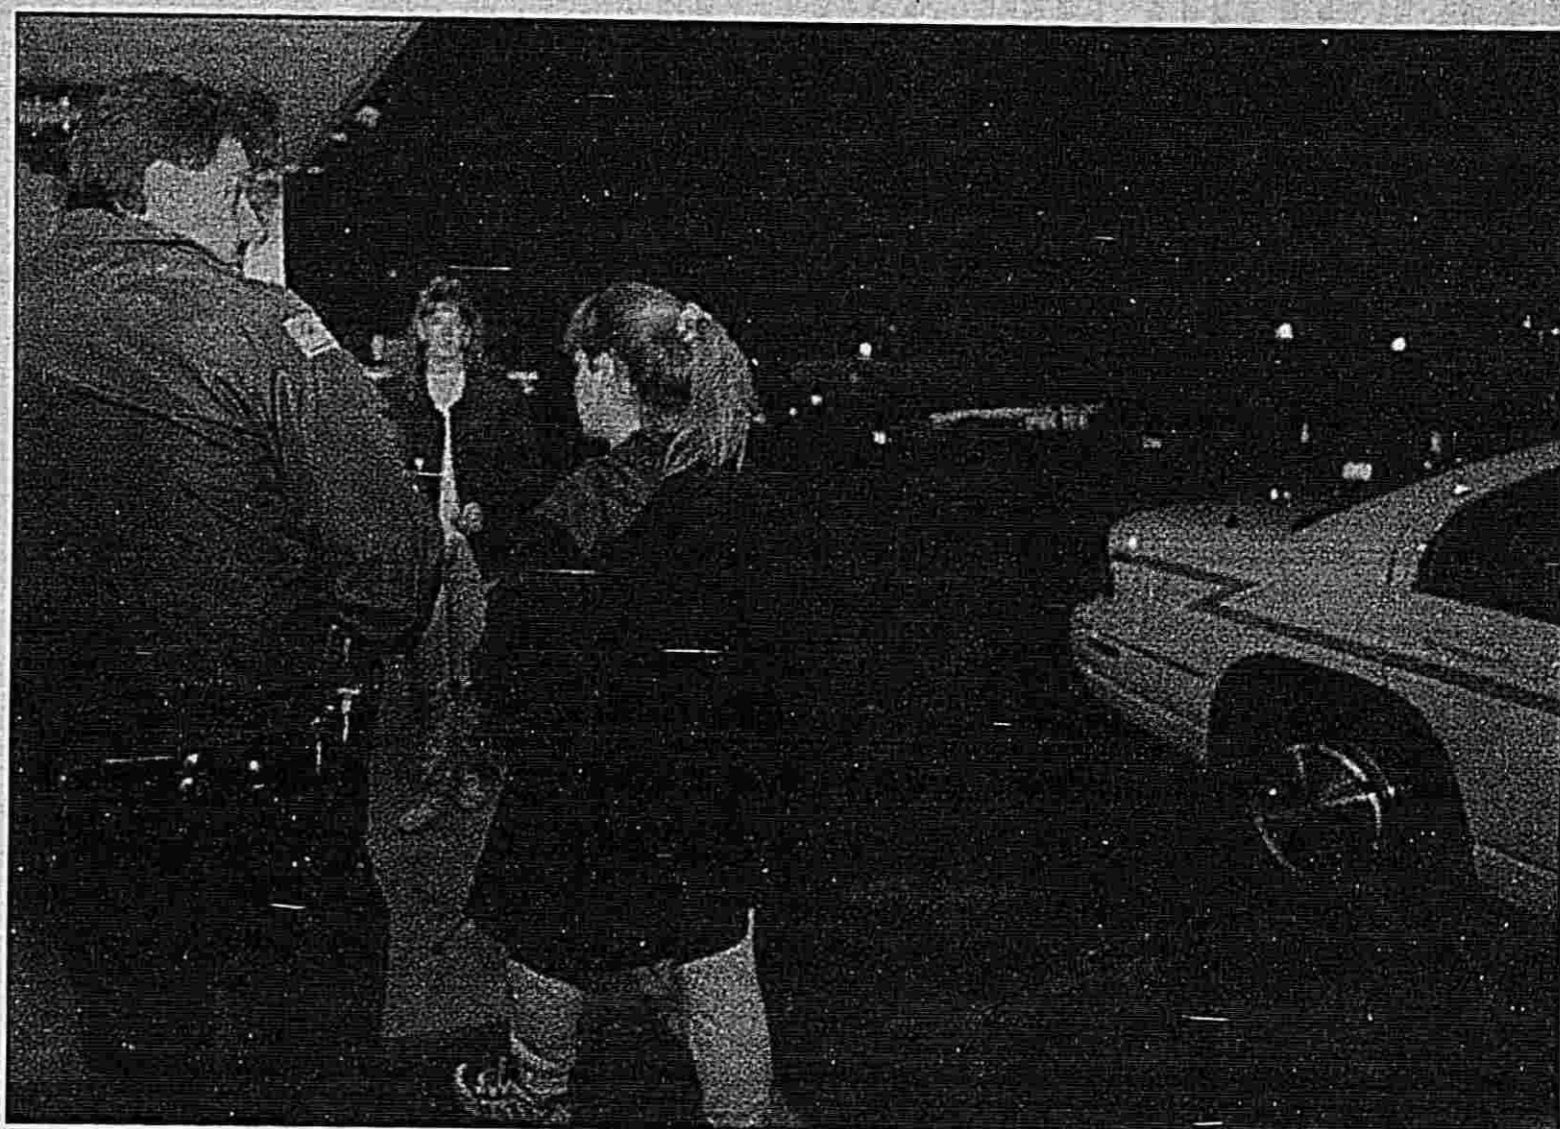

A two-year investigation combining the efforts of state and local authorities and targeting illegal gambling at businesses in and around Fox Lake resulted in a raid and the arrest of eight on the evening of Oct. 14.

At approximately 7:40 p.m., state Special Agents and officers from the Fox Lake Police Department conducted a simultaneous sweep of a number of locations looking for evidence of illegal sports betting, bingo, video gambling machines, raffles and strip cards.

"Approximately two years ago, our department became aware of illegal gambling operations in our area and, from the outset, it was revealed to be beyond the scope of what we

Standing up for the right to deliver

By JEFF PATERSON

The quiet Lake County community of Ingleside seems an unlikely staging area for a constitutional battle.

The lines, however, have been drawn, legal funds are being banked, and resident Jessica DeFilippo, 33, a wife and mother of four, is preparing for a coming clash over the issue of the home delivery of babies by professional midwives.

"What modern medicine has to offer is very valuable," DeFilippo said. "We're not discrediting that; we're asking for a place to work."

On Aug. 4 of this year, DeFilippo was one of four midwives issued a Cease and Desist Order by the Illinois

Ingleside midwife prepares to challenge Medical Practice Act on constitutional grounds

Department of Professional Regulation based upon the agency's interpretation of the state Medical Practice Act.

On Sept. 8, DeFilippo and Chicago midwife Vicki Gervais, 34, filed suit in the Cook County's Chancery Court charging that the Act is unconstitutional vague.

Both DeFilippo and Gervais are Certified Professional Midwives with the North American Registry of Midwives, but their training is not recognized by the state. DeFilippo has provided primary care for as many as 30 mothers in her two years as a practicing midwife, following training learned from midwives in Richmond and Jamaica and passing written and practical tests. In her seven years of practicing midwifery, Gervais has helped to deliver more than 550 babies.

Whether they will continue to deliver babies, however, will depend on their success in challenging the Medical Practice Act.

The Medical Practice Act as it was formerly applied to restrict midwifery was successfully challenged in 1988, when an Appellate Court ruled it failed to define the acts of midwifery it sought to prohibit.

In 1991, the Act was amended to Lake County voter registration explodes

What if your business processed 12 to 20 client requests per week and then saw business soar to more than 800 clients per week. "Incredible," you might say, such growth would likely add to your staff and your operating budget. The Lake County Clerk's office has experienced such demand as voter registration grows by leaps and bounds. Some weeks the transactions processed are 6000 percent above past averages.

"This tremendous growth is due to the National Voter Registration Act," stated Lake County Clerk Willard Helander. "It is as though every week we are experiencing the peak period of voter registration that previously was seen only in a Presidential election year." Helander continued, "With no new staff in the County Clerk's office, we are facing and meeting the challenge. In the past, this volume only occurred in presidential elections and required an average of 20 temporary workers for 16 weeks adding an additional $150,000 cost beyond the County Clerk budget. This temporary staff was paid from the County General Operating Expense Account. Our increased productivity in 1997 is an accomplishment of no small proportion."

One might wonder, "How has this been done?" Helander attributes the giant jump in productivity to the staff who have embraced several changes in the way business is conducted in the County Clerk's office. According to Helander, "We have reorganized the work flow of paper, the filing system and utilized computers in every aspect available with the current voter registration system. However, the bottom line is the people doing the job. We have high expectations and the commitment of our staff has produced phenomenal results, well above the goals we originally set."

In the last few months, a major enhancement was introduced by Helander. The office has imaged voter signatures for use in the polls on election day. "This technology permits us to end the practice of keeping two sets of voter files which require an enormous amount of staff time spent affixing multiple sets of adhesive labels whenever changes are made, and re-filing the records after each election. These changes are saving money."

During the Nov. 4 elections, voters will see a streamlined process at the polls. The election judges will no longer have to search through the sets of paperwork, the application for ballot and the voter record. All the required information will be contained on the application for ballot. "It is a win-win situation. Streamlining saves time for our staff, election judges and the voters," said Helander.

alone could handle," said Fox Lake Police Chief Edward Gerretsen.

Gerretsen added that his department's work with the Illinois Department of Revenue and the Illinois State Attorney General's Office to conduct undercover investigations had resulted in the development of information leading up to the raid.

The following businesses were raided: Bottoms Up (E. Grand Ave. in Fox Lake) Fagan's Squaw Creek Park (800 W. Rollins Road in Ingleside), The Borgata Restaurant (510 S. Park Ave.), Studio One (115 Nippersink Boulevard), and The Grand Tracks Saloon (151 E. Grand Ave. in Lake Villa). It is not known at this time if two other locations previously targeted were raided.

The following were reported arrested, each on one charge of gambling and one charge of keeping an illegal gambling house: Charles M. Schutt, 58, of 698 Main St. in Antioch; Michael D. Curcio, 42, of 1345 Rock Cove Court in Hoffmann Estates; Lory Ann Nedza, 40, of 717 Monterey Terrace in McHenry; Tracy Marie Hamilton, 21, of 115 Nippersink Blvd. in Fox Lake; Loretta L. Rosenbach, 52, of 1009 Bay Road in McHenry; Gayle D. Pohlman, 51, (no address available from police); Laura L. Sikorski, 34, of 5308 Kenosha St. in Richmond; Debra Kiesgen, 40, of 313 Highpoint Drive in Lindenhurst.

ve in Lindenhurst.

"We've received a number of calls, both from restaurant owners and members of the public applauding our efforts," said Gerretsen.

Fox Lake Mayor Jim Pappas also commended those who took part in the raid.

"Unfortunately there is still a mentality out in some areas that, as long you own a business and it benefits the village, you can do what you want."

"I would agree, as long as it's legal," continued Pappas. "Otherwise, you could argue that having an Al Capone in Fox Lake would be good for the village."

MIDWIVES: Fight for right to continue working prohibit the treatment of a "human condition" by those not licensed by the state.

It was based upon this version of the Act that the Cease and Desist Orders were issued, the argument being that the midwives were essentially practicing medicine without a license. In their suit, DeFilippo and Gervais, counter that "human condition" is so vague so as to include headaches and stomachaches, and so parents advising their children to take over-the-counter remedies for these and other conditions could also be charged as being in violation of the Act.

"Although we know that they are not going to go after any parent who is 'prescribing' a remedy for their children, the point is that is how vague the law is," Gervais said. "There is a legal responsibility for there to be laws the average person can understand... and this is not one of them."

In pursuing their case, the women are also looking for a clarification of the legal status of their profession. While currently not recognized by the state as an occupation which may be conducted other than by a nurse-midwife acting under a doctor's supervision, midwifery has sometimes legally been referred to as a profession separate from nursing.

"The state does not license midwives, but it also does not prohibit midwives and (makes) references to she needs to go a physician who can handle those needs," she said.

"We have no desire to handle complicated cases; if women are ill, they belong in the hands of a doctor," Gervais agreed, but added that professional midwives have a number of important pre-natal services to offer.

"Most people don't know how to apply 'eat well' to their daily lives,"

'There are a lot of low-risk women out there who are not at risk by giving birth at home, they can benefit economically and emotionally from having a baby at home.'

midwives (in the Vital Records and Eye Prophylaxis Acts and in proclamations by Illinois Governors in 1988 and 1994)," Gervais said. "That can be very confusing and that will be part of our argument."

Gervais added that, as the home of a powerful and politically influential State Medical Agency, Illinois has traditionally been seen as a "hard nut to crack" with regard to the introduction of alternative medical practices.

"That is really hard to fight against. We are women with families providing service to women at reduced cost and we're not in for the money," she said. "That is a pretty hard lobby to fight."

But while seeking to affirm the services of a professional midwife as an option for expecting mothers, neither DeFilippo nor Gervais considers their profession as a threat to modern medical practices. They argue that studies in respected medical publications show midwifery to be a safe means to aid healthy women in a natural life process.

"There are a lot of low-risk women out there who are not at risk by giving birth at home, they can benefit economically and emotionally from having a baby at home," DeFilippo said.

The cost of a midwife-attended birth can be in the area of $1,200, as little as one-fifth the cost of a physician-attended birth. Delivery at home may also offer the mother greater comfort compared to the unfamiliar setting and staff of a hospital.

"I think home birth is much better, but I was too chicken to try it the first time," said DeFilippo's neighbor Sheri Goodwin, whose three of four children were born at home. "With a home birth, there is no travel involved, while at the hospital, on top of the travel, it's largely a group of strangers telling you what to do."

But even with the advantages home delivery by midwife may offer, DeFilippo acknowledged that her training was no substitute for that of a doctor in cases of high-risk or highly complicated births.

"When a woman is high risk, I have no business taking care of her," she said, noting the one-to-one counseling midwives may provide mothers concerning the importance of good nutrition during pregnancy.

"And so, besides only desiring and thinking it appropriate to work with normal healthy women, we help to keep them healthy so a smaller number of them become ill during their pregnancy," Gervais said.

With perhaps as many as 40 professional midwives practicing in the state, it is not clear to DeFilippo or Gervais why they and midwives Cindy Cornia of McHenry and Jackie Wallis of Naperville were selected by DPR for the cease and desist orders. DeFilippo said all four had been contacted by a state investigator claiming to be an expectant mother and seeking information about the services each midwife offered, with these inquiries being followed by the state's orders to desist.

"What precipitated that is still a mystery," DeFilippo said. "We do know there were no complaints filed against us; no damages, no injuries; no deaths... we expect the reason to eventually come out."

But while DeFilippo and Gervais are now waiting until March for the suit to see action in court, their former clients are looking for options.

Gervais said that she has referred approximately 25 women to nurse-midwives, physicians willing to do home deliveries, and certified professional midwives like herself who are still practicing. She added that many couples had told her they were considering delivering the babies at home by themselves.

One client of DeFilippo's, a 25-year-old in her third trimester with her third child, would not divulge her delivery plans.

Asking to remain anonymous, she described her treatment while last delivering in hospital as "rude and cold."

"I felt like a patient being treated for a disease," she said, and didn't rule out proceeding with delivery at home.

Meanwhile, the two midwives expect the wheels of justice to grind fine, but slowly.

"It could be years before we get a ruling," DeFilippo said.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

States attorney to look at audit

Libertyville—The Libertyville Township board voted 4-1 to ask Lake County State's Attorney Michael Waller to examine the findings of the "audit" of the past eight years of township business.

The move was a mere formality after it was revealed Waller was going to be looking at the findings of the report, done by Milburn Cain & Co., of Gurnee, the next day.

Libertyville Township Supervisor F.T. "Mike" Graham, who maintained throughout the long process allegations of improper conduct by the previous supervisor and board, said the findings of the report merit further review.

Developer accommodates wish

Round Lake Park—With a number of other taxing districts keeping a watchful eye on the Round Lake Park Tax Incremental Financing district, Mayor Ila Bauer said the developer has been very accommodating to the village's wish that the other district be brought up to speed on the issue.

The TIF district was the final action of the previous Round Lake Park village board and outgoing Mayor Charlene Beyer.

"We're working to make it a viable, workable thing that will enhance the quality of life of the residents of the village," said Bauer.

Hobbyists display models

Antioch—Two of the Chicago area's most elite modeling clubs will be present Saturday, Oct. 18, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the new Ben Franklin Home Accents Hobby Dept. at 455 Lake Street.

The model show will display some very beautifully crafted work by experienced hobbyists, according to Kevin Meixell, a sales representative for United Model Distributors, Inc.

"Many of these models are worth in the five and ten thousand dollar range," said Meixell, who has seen the show previously.

"We've been expanding that department at a pretty rapid pace for the past five years," said Donald C. Marski, co-owner with wife Jane of Ben Franklin.

"Saturday we're having local modeling clubs come in and display their made-up models," he said. The two clubs are the C.A.R.S. in Miniature Club and the Lakes Region Scale Modelers Club. The displays will feature air brushing demonstrations, a presentation of dioramas, military models, and figures.

Park Dist. holds spooky events

Lindenhurst—The Lindenhurst Park District and its sponsors present their annual haunted trail and bonfire community event Oct. 25.

There is a haunted trail, a tractor-drawn hay wagon ride, a costume judging contest, and Viola Swamp. "She is the witch from Millburn School," said Kathy Kohler, public information coordinator for the park district.

"I asked if she would do the haunted trail because she is so great," said Kohler. Along with Viola Swamp, frequently associated with Lindenhurst resident Mary Zahnle, comes an electric chair and coffin. People who wish to have a photograph taken will find her willing to do so on her electric chair under the tent.

The haunted trail hours for families with children 6 years old and under are 4:30 to 6 p.m. Families with children 7 years old or more may use the trail from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. There is a $1 hospitality donation for each person.

GLK Legion Auxiliary disbands

Grayslake—The Grayslake American Legion Auxiliary was chartered in 1927. It is giving up its charter due to waning interest.

The Auxiliary turned over its charter and historical documents to the Grayslake Historical Society and its records to the Gurnee Auxiliary.

According to Secretary Bessie Baumann, she and a select few women were the backbone of the group for many years. She has been a member for 60 years and for the last 40 years has served as secretary. President Esther Schroeder and Treasurer Jacqueline Watters also put in several years of service.

The group went from a 100 member roster at its height to a low of only 28 dues paying members now. Baumann said they simply couldn't get members to attend meetings.

The last of the original charter members passed away recently. Alma Kuebker, who was 101, was a 70-year member of the group.

Parent group helps parents

Wauconda—A new club is being formed at Wauconda Middle School to keep parents apprised of their children's problems and needs and make themselves available to other parents for advice.

The Parent Connection is designed to act as a parent support group, where parents can become more educated with what signs to look for of appearances of alcohol and drug abuse, as well as to encourage communication between parents and explore and share parenting skills, said Dr. John F. Barbini, superintendent of Wauconda Unit District 118.

Programs will be held, and phone list will be created of all members for their use. If it is successful this year, plans call to expand it throughout the district, said Marty Pieper, a guidance counselor at the middle school who coordinated a team of parents and staff who wrote a successful state grant application for $8,500 for the program.

School districts to monitor TIF

Mundelein—The school board Mundelein High School District 120 is joining forces with Fremont School District 79 in opposition to the Round Lake Park Tax Incremental District.

"The high school really has to protect itself in this case," said David Snell, Dist. 120 school board president. Dr. Arthur T. Newbrough, Dist. 120 superintendent, said the district stands to lose as much as $4.5 million a year for the 23 year existence of the TIF, an amount representing one-third of its annual educational fund budget.

A lame duck Round Lake Park board approved at its final board meeting in April a TIF and redevelopment agreement to the Alter Group, which will freeze the property taxes for 23 years on 575 acres it has owned for the past 20 years, said Mary Riordan, a Chicago lawyer representing Dist. 79.

Two charged in shooting

Gurnee—An argument involving two groups in separate vehicles led to a shooting with two Lindenhurst residents later charged.

The two groups were 10-15 feet away from each other when an argument ensued at a Burger King restaurant across from Six Flags Great America on Oct. 12.

When the incident was over, a 21-year old from Antioch was shot in the stomach area and taken to a Waukegan hospital.

Charged by police in the shooting were Learvin Sanbrano, age 19, of 532 W. Madison Ln., Lindenhurst. He was charged with aggravated battery with a firearm. A passenger in his vehicle, Richard "Sheldon" Brown III was charged with obstruction of justice. Sanbrano was assigned a $1 million bond; Brown a $100,000 bond. Both are being held at Lake County Jail.

"It had to do with someone in the shooter's car looking at a girlfriend of someone in the victim's car," said Gurnee police Investigator Jay Patrick.

The restaurant was busy at the time and commerce continued there and at nearby restaurants.

"They were allowed to remain open after we cordoned off a large area of the parking lot area," Patrick said.

A .22 caliber hand gun is believed to be used. The weapon had not been retrieved by police as of the next day. The victim was listed in serious condition following surgery and is expected to survive. Gurnee police did not release the name of the victim on Monday.

The victim was transported to St. Therese Medical Center by Gurnee Fire Dept. personnel.

The suspect was arrested at his Lindenhurst home by police there.

United Way of Lake County 'Opens' funding process

For the first time in nearly five years, United Way of Lake County will be opening up its application process for funding to those who have and have not previously received funding from the organizations.

Last year, community volunteers allocated almost $4 million to fund 92 programs run by 40 local health and human service agencies. The actual requested amount from just United Way of Lake County member agencies was nearly four times that amount.

This year, funding will be allocated in three year cycles, running from July 1, 1998 to June 30, 2001. The increasing demand for funding dollars, along with the length of the funding cycle, have United Way bracing for a flood of applications.

"It will be interesting to see how this process goes," said Michelle Crombie, director of planning and fund distribution. "I wouldn't be surprised to see the amount of applications double.

The large number of requests are expected despite the fact that not every agency will be able to apply only programs that fall under two of United Way of Lake County's four Community Funding Goals will be eligible. Those two goals are Increasing Long Term Independence and Self Sufficiency and Providing Emergency Food, Shelter, and Crisis Management Services.

United Way of Lake County will continue funding its current programs that Strengthen Families, Nurture Children and Youth, as well as programs that Promote Physical and Mental Health and Wellness. New programs will be eligible to apply for funding under those area in the future.

Crombie also stressed that because such a large number of requests are expected, no late applications will be accepted.

"Applications are due Dec. 8 at 4 p.m.," she said. "We want to keep the process as fair as possible, so we won't be making any exceptions."

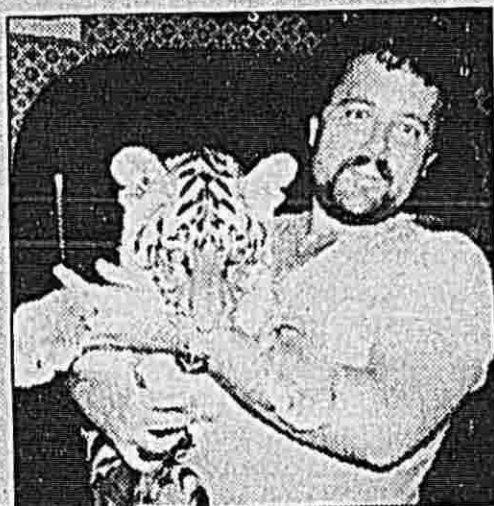

For more information and a brochure explaining the basic criteria and requirements for funding eligibility, call United Way of Lake County at 816-0063.

Hotel-events center hinges on partnering

Tourism in Lake County has been on the rise for a long time. Only one thing is missing for the growing number of businesses deriving significant revenues from visitors—a hotel/convention complex.

Time-Warner Inc., parent of Six Flags Great America, already is well down the road with planning the central core events center and hotel for a 135 acre site on the west side of I-94 and Washington St. the company already owns. The key to developing the complex is creation of a public body for providing sponsorship and possibly some financial underpinning that the company believes is essential.

Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton has created a 26 member Blue Ribbon Committee to study market feasibility and gauge public opinion. It would come as a shock the equivalent of an earth tremor if the committee does not find that a convention/hotel complex is both needed and beneficial. Such is the way those things work.

Developers for Time-Warner foresee a complex containing a destination resort, retail/restaurant facility, a small theme park, employee housing for Six Flags summer help and an events center with seating for between 10,000 and 12,000. Save for the employee housing, the other elements are ingredients that would enhance county tourism immeasurably and fulfill the ultimate goal of putting "heads in beds." Time-Warner's own attractions aside, Lake County is rich in places to go and things to do that attract visitors. Our problem is providing facilities to sleep in comfort.

The committee already has been told that private funding is available for all the center components with the exception of the events facility. At this point, political leadership is acquired to pull together village, county and state participation to create the partnering necessary to make the center happen.

Mayor Welton certainly ought to be able to handle that. He's done it before.

Sales tax plan still increases taxes

Once again, county officials appear ready to turn to alternative financing to fund needs of the criminal justice system. Mindful that electors several years ago rejected raising real estate taxes for construction of a juvenile courts center and youth detention home, the County Board is looking at a quarter cent sales tax hike to build a minimum security jail, provide an $8 million police communications upgrade and hire 17 new employees in the Circuit Clerk's office necessary to keep abreast with activity in the courts.

Despite voter rejection, the County Board turned to a revenue bonding program where voter approval was not required. County Board leaders rationalized that the need was imminent. The Depke Youth Center stands as a monument to the financial creativity of county officials. Maybe once, but probably not twice. So its back to the electors.

The sales tax source would raise $10 to $13 million a year, sufficient to provide for needs brought on by increases in crime and citizen-demanded stiffer sentencing. The 1998 general election is viewed as an appropriate time to put the questions to voters.

Law and Judicial Committee Chairman Angelo Kyle (D-Waukegan) sounded an early battle cry for the sales tax, pointing out that tourists and shopping mall customers will contribute heavily. True, but local taxpayers are consumers, too, so they'll be paying for an expanded jail, police radio improvements and more court help one way or another. Political leaders still will have to make their case for digging deeper into the pockets of citizens.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Voice of the public minimized

Grayslake officials held a "Community Center Informational Meeting" Sept. 29 at the Village Hall. I wanted to take my pre-teen grandkids along with me to the meeting to show them how citizens can gather and speak their mind on an issue in good old town hall fashion, which is: you stand up and say your piece. No matter what was said, or how some would act, I thought just the experience of hearing and seeing what went on would make a lasting impression on them that could not be learned in a dozen classes on government.

However, I was running late and didn't have time to stop by and get them, so I decided to bring them for sure another time. As it turned out, they missed little. The only lesson they could have learned is how the village, by design, quashed any kind of frank, open discussion, disappointing many attendees.

Mayor Carey began with a five minute overview, at which time the 150 present were divided into three

A millisecond from death! Still stiff and sore more than a week later, Paul Fjellstedt recalls with disbelief his encounter with a careless jet skier that almost cost his life and the life of his son, Sean, 12.

"I'm lucky to be here," exclaimed the 53-year-old insurance broker and single dad. "I was a millisecond away from death. We've got to get jet skies off our lakes. They're just too dangerous. They're like torpedoes."

The nightmarish crash abruptly ended a last-trip-of-the-season cruise on a balmy Sunday October afternoon. Fjellstedt was knocked unconscious by the impact of the jet ski striking his Boston Whaler equipped with an outboard engine. He remembers heavy jet ski traffic on usually quiet Long Lake, a recreational lake surrounded by private residences connected to the Chain O'Lakes by Squaw Creek.

"Sean called out, 'Watch out, dad'. I didn't hear anything approaching. I remember the sound of metal and fiber glass crunching."

The father and son were being helped ashore in front of their home where the crash occurred when Fjellstedt regained consciousness. "My only concern was that Sean wasn't hurt. I vaguely heard him repeating,

"Dad, are you OK? Dad, are you OK?"

The operator of the jet ski, who had been hurled into the water by the force of the impact, was among those who came ashore. Fjellstedt related that the jet ski operator, 25-year-old Chicagoan Joseph Delesandro, spoke to him. "He said, 'I feel bad about this. I was looking back at a friend'."

What happened was the jet ski struck the outboard engine just in back of Fjellstedt at the controls of his boat, shearing the motor off mount bolts. Only control cables kept the engine from sinking. Fjellstedt guessed the jet ski was traveling about 50 to 60 mph.

The jet ski came to rest on top of Fjellstedt in the Whaler. "I noticed I had yellow marks on my back when we got to the St. Therese Trauma Center in Lake Villa."

Fjellstedt believes he would have been decapitated had the jet ski struck his boat broadside.

Fjellstedt said he was surprised that a Lake County deputy sheriff took information at the trauma center from his son. "I thought it was kind of unusual that a police officer would interview a 12-year-old boy," the shaken father declared. The father was being X-rayed when the deputy made his report.

In retrospect, Fjellstedt is dumbfounded that the jet ski operator was not charged with a violation. Fjellstedt shouldn't be surprised. It's sort of a "Law of the Lakes," unlike highway traffic crashes, that citations only are issued when there is serious injury or liquor involved. Boating in Lake County basically is a "no fault" activity.

Not surprising, Fjellstedt finds it difficult to be charitable under the circumstances. A big man (6-7) who speaks softly in measured tones, Fjellstedt says of his narrow escape only that jet skiers are unmannered and typically reckless. "They have no boating sense at all," observed the boat owner who grew up on Long Lake and has been boating all his life.

Editor's note: At mid-week Fjellstedt was hospitalized at Condell Medical Center with internal bleeding.

Big government scam undermines consulting industry

By ROBERT J. BYRNE

A May, 1997, advertisement in the Peoria Journal-Star noted supposed "opportunities" for consultants of all types that deal with smaller manufacturing firms.

The consultant could be "considered for inclusion in IMEC's (Illinois Manufacturing Extension Center) "Qualified Service Provider data base." IMEC was seeking these consultants "to work with IMEC's regional centers to address the needs of 9,500 smaller Manufacturers in Illinois—"

The president of a consulting firm in Princeton, called (309) 677-3765, as suggested in the ad, for further information. Upon receiving the information he chose not to respond. A person known as Kathy began calling the consultant, hoping he would soon return the "Pre-Qualification Survey for Potential Providers of Technical Assistance."

Thus began the journey into the federal government's newest "rip off" of the American tax payer, now estimated at $400 million dollars yearly and rising.

MEC's are high cost government clearing houses for all consultants that deal with all manufacturers with 500 employees or less.

MEC's are in the process of contacting "381,000" such manufacturers all over America and Puerto Rico from 350 MEC offices to offer these manufacturers "LOW COST comprehensive consulting services."

MEC's will then expect any consultant that wishes work that the MEC has accessed to go through an MEC approval process, and if approved for work, the consultant will then broker his/her fees with the local MEC. If chosen, all consultants' work will be supervised by an MEC "Project Manager" who contractually insists on being "held harmless" before the project can begin. The MEC will handle billing the client, and on receiving payment, the MEC will pay the consultant within seven days at a reduced rate (preferably at least 20 percent off the consultant usual rate). This of course, is a voluntary process. I'm sure those consultants not interested in volunteering will not mind paying their tax dollars at all levels to support those seeking to compete with them. Perhaps this arrangement might be made available to all electri-cians and plumbers that serve manufacturers?

Documentation from just one MEC office (Chicago Manufacturing Center (773) 265-2732) shows that this one MEC has manufactured 37 high paying management jobs in its own MEC office, plus several other low paying jobs. The question then becomes—What is the payroll of the CMC? What is the payroll for all 350 MEC offices?

In 1996, the federal grant from National Institute for Standards and Technology (a Dept. of Commerce subsidiary located in Gaithersburg, Md.) to just the one MEC in Chicago was $4,708,599, plus grants came in from other levels of government. The 1996 budget for CMC was $7,000,000. Income from clients was $1,197,146. Perhaps a cost/benefit study should be done by an outside consultant.

Much more can be said about MEC's coast to coast. Suffice it to say, the California Manufacturing Technology Center apparently made a call to a large consultant referral service in hopes of getting some referrals. They weren't given any.

I took the time to discuss MEC's with some very relevant people. One manufacturer did have an inquiry for this consultant, "Have you got an aspirin?" The other comments should not be in print.

Editor's note: Robert Byrne is president of his own business consulting firm in Gurnee.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Pedersen: No conflict

Linda Pedersen took a leave of absence from her employment to avoid any conflict of interest charges in her campaign to oust Dist. 1 County Board Rep. Judy Martini. Peterson works as a broker in the insurance office owned by Antioch Supervisor Tim Osmond. Peterson, whose civic accomplishments fill half a page, is making growth an issue and cultivating a pro-business stance. Martini, a real estate broker, isn't anti-business, but makes no reservations about her concern with public problems associated with growth and development.

Pedersen: Leaves job to campaign the fact that he wasn't on the list of department head appointments last May. The chief, age 55, reluctantly agreed to retire Oct. 31, while at the same time professing that he doesn't know why he has to go. Tower Lakes Police Chief James Eccles is in the wings for the $50,000 per year job.

Traffic solutions

It only took one day of waiting in traffic backed up at the intersection of Midlothian and Gilmer roads for County Board Member Diana O'Kelly (R-Mundelein) to make a phone call to the county department of transportation and find a solution.

O'Kelly said a quick check by Marty Buehler and staff discovered the traffic signal, under the jurisdiction of IDOT, was suffering from computer software glitches. The software is being upgraded.

Fast work by O'Kelly and Buehler should be saving commuters headaches.

Halas: Targeted by own party?

John Matijevich when he was defeated for re-election.

Won't leave

Call Police Chief Eugene Bach of Island Lake a male version of Unsinkable Molly Brown. He won't quit. Bach fell into disfavor with Mayor Charles Amrich and ignored

Home needed

Enterprising politicians might want to bite into this one: Lake Forest symphony, a paid orchestra, is looking for a home. This is the last season for the orchestra at Finch University/Chicago Medical School in North Chicago because the school needs Rhoades Auditorium. Contact Jean Beck, executive director of the 41 year old. Seating for 700 to 800 and good acoustics a must.

Halas hurting

County Board Rep. Debbie Halas (D-Waukegan) is shoring up her support for next year's re-election campaign. Old line Democrats say they are tired of Halas cow-towing to Republican influence and are looking among the faithful for a replacement. Halas reportedly has lost Democratic roots since leaving the employment of former Democratic State Rep.

Leave it to golfers to enjoy masochism

I was introduced to a new form of self-inflicted suffering last weekend when some so-called friends lured me into the annual Masochist Open golf tournament at Spring Valley Country Club, near Antioch.

As if the anguish of everyday golf, the fickleness of the fairways, isn't masochistic enough, this event is not only a good walk spoiled, as Mark Twain described the sport, but it can be a player's most bizarre nightmare as well.

The tees are moved back into the next area code, making the course a few hundred yards longer, and the holes are situated in the most difficult places a diabolical mind can muster.

That devilish disposition belongs to golf professional Dick Singer, a truly affable guy 364 days a year. He explained how the Masochist Open was born. "About 10 years ago some of the players were complaining about the pin placements, saying they were too tough."

"I said, 'I'll show you tough pin placements.' And he turned it into a tournament in which even a tap-in can spell Trouble with a capital T."

It has become a popular event with lots of prizes. Last week it attracted 74 entries, average golfers, both men and women, and some of the best amateur players in the area.

Built some 70 years ago, Spring Valley is a grand old course, wonderfully contoured and bunkered, and the greens are tricky wherever the holes are located.

But for this Kafkaesque occasion, Singer puts them in spots calculated to make a player as nervous as a long-tailed cat in a room full of rocking chairs. For example, on a crest where if the ball isn't putted into the hole, if it misses by a fraction of an inch, it might plunge downhill like a frog on roller skates.

THE PFARR CORNER

On the ninth hole I had a innocent-looking 10-foot putt for a par. My ball barely missed going in and then began its descent down a slope until it finally stopped 20 feet below the hole.

I slapped it back up, but it quit just short of the hole and rolled all the way back to where I was standing. I finally four-putted for a seven.

One of my partners found himself chipping 30 feet uphill to the seventh hole from the fringe of the green. Each time the ball missed the hole it made a return trip to the fringe, like a yo-yo on a string.

Players who normally shoot in the 80s found their scores soaring toward 100. Three- and four-putt greens were epidemic.

Mark Kuyawa of Kenosha posted the lowest round, a remarkable under the circumstances 73. Betty Collins of Lake Villa shot 93, the best of the women's scores.

Actually, I thought it was tremendous fun and would enjoy playing a Masochist Open a few times a year. Maybe this type of tomfoolery will catch on, like those Chill Opens in January in which diehard golfers frolic on courses concocted on our frozen lakes.

But you won't catch me doing that. I'm not that much of a masochist.

groups to ask questions of Carey, Village Manager Ellis and architect Robison. You couldn't get close enough to hear much, and you couldn't speak much, and after standing for an hour, I left. I wondered if my senior citizen neighbor lady stood for the whole two hour meeting. Driving home I concluded that I didn't learn anything new that night except how village officials purposely changed the whole dynamics of the meeting to minimize our voices. Maybe I'll have to take the kids to a neighboring town for their lesson.

Thanks to volunteers

As chairwoman of the 1997 American Heart Assn.'s Heart Walk, I wish to thank the hundreds of Lake County volunteers who woke up early on a Sunday morning, gathered their families together and walked to help fight heart disease and stroke. With heart attack survivors leading the way, many people walked in memory of family and friends whose lives had been cut short by heart disease.

This was only the second year that northern Lake County has participated in this event. I am proud to report that we not only surpassed last year's contributions, we more than doubled the pledges and raised nearly $35,000 to support the research work of the American Heart Assn.

My special thanks to the Industry Leaders and the Team Captains who worked diligently for nine months to make this fundraiser a success. It was an honor to work with each and every one of you. And to all the walkers who made this event a reality, my deepest thanks

Thanks, Van

Van Sells died this summer, and she was remembered at a ceremony in McHenry County, where she lived most of her 88 years.

I can only speak about the last 30 or so.

From the halcyon days at WKRS, when there weren't so many radio stations everywhere, when Lake County wasn't absorbed into Chicago's "suburbia" by slick daily newspapers seemingly everywhere, before "Uncle Bobby," before Oprah, there was a powerful news voice on Belvidere Road, and Van Sells was part of that incredible team assembled by the late Fritz Sorensen.

Van Sells was part Carole Channing and part Mom—and all news.

She taught rookies how to enunciate. You couldn't miss her style.

She pronounced the programs and news stories on programs that are from a bygone era in today's faxed-in, turned-on, hyper-spaced (dot com) world of news reporting. She gave equal importance to The Calendar, Today's Babies and Today's Obituaries. Very, very strange programming to a young broadcaster who grew up on Dick Biondi and Clark Weber at WLS.

She's gone now, and along with Keith Ryan, Jerry Cray, and Fritz. A part of me grieves, and another part of Van still lives inside me for the times we shared in McHenry County at the fairs and the beauty pageants—the McHenry County News at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. sponsored by McHenry State Bank.

I can't believe how much I think of her every time I do a commercial. Every time. Thanks, Van.

Slam door on auto dealers

It's starting to look like a game in this contest of which community can entice auto dealers to locate in their jurisdiction. If anyone says that Gurnee is winning because most of the auto dealers are seeking to go there, ask the citizens of Gurnee if they think it's a win for the village.

No, that's a contest we would be better off by losing. I have lost count on how many auto dealers are knocking at our door, but I think the time has past when the village board slams the door in their faces.

Each day the beautiful Gurnee that filled us with pride is becoming the gaudy Gurnee that no one expected or wanted. It is happening so fast, I hate to think of what the future will bring. More citizens should inform their "leaders" what they think about this so-called progress and from what I am hearing many others agree with that.

A lot for a little

On Nov. 4, Gurnee Park District residents have the opportunity to vote for a significant improvement for the children of our village. I believe our park district already furnishes valuable programs, but I also believe we need a new facility, specifically, the Outdoor Aquatic Center and small recreation center. There have been arguments that the park district should consist of just open fields, and not have much of a staff or any significant facilities. After seeing the classes offered first hand, the waiting lists, and talking to other parents, I disagree. Open fields cannot provide joint activities, it takes people to do that. Nature walks abound here, yet there is no public swimming pool in our village. Without facilities, there can be no classes. Many of the park district programs have waiting lists, showing the demand that is present. The facilities at Viking Park are used constantly. Plain open spaces may be economical, but in reality are of little use without the facilities and staff to provide programs.

Make no mistake, the Hunt Club Leisure Center is not up for a vote in the November referendum. What is up, is an Outdoor Aquatic Center which is a modern day swimming pool, along with a 4,000 square foot room for classes, 2,400 square feet for a children's recreation program area and 1,000 square feet for offices. There is NO Lake Forest involvement (or any other hospital either) NO gymnasium, NO indoor swimming pool and NO fitness center. Now lets talk money. The price tag, 6.9 million for this community, equals $33 a year for a homeowner with a house valued at $150,000. $33 a year for a facility which will provide kids with a place to swim and learn to swim, a place where families will be able to have a day together without breaking their budget. $33 a year is less than the cost of one month of Cable TV, less than one evening out for a family of four, and certainly less than the cost of packing the family up for a single day and going to a place that does have a pool. When examined in real everyday terms, this is a bargain.

Keep enthusiasm

It's very encouraging to see so many concerned Round Lake Beach homeowners attend the Country Walk Talks Taxes meeting. I hope this enthusiasm will continue. The extremely high property taxes the residents have need to be reduced drastically and soon. One thing the mayor needs to do is cut out the redundant taxes we pay (two libraries, two fire districts, two employee pension plans). Surely it's only just and fair to support one of each, just like any other communities. Mayor Davis can take the lead on this truly unfair practice and give his constituents some real tax relief.

Round Lake Beach

Stealing you blind

Island Lake, wake up, before the mayor and trustees steal you blind. What happened to the $21,000 federal grant from 1978 that was supposed to go toward the development of the big island with docks and landscaping.

Island Lake

Put info about Grayslake

I live in Lake Villa and my child goes to Grayslake High School. I see a lot of articles on Antioch High School, but not enough on Grayslake High School. Can you please print some things and publish pictures, too?

Thanks for signs

I want to thank Fox Lake for putting up the Dog Waste signs. The waste in our area was really bad. Hopefully it will curb some of the problems.

Thanks for change

I want to say thank you to the publishers who've gone back to delivering my newspaper by mail instead of dropping it in the driveway. Thank you!

Ingleside

Credit where it's due

This is in regard to the Sept. 26 comments praising Round Lake for showing the gangs that the police are in charge. This was Round Lake Park with Bruce Johnson and his board, and the Illinois police doing the work. Please give Round Lake Park the credit.

Be considerate

I'm calling about duck hunters who start shooting at 5:30 a.m. and continue to 7 p.m. These thoughtless, inconsiderate characters should move to Idaho. We have to get up every morning at 5 a.m. to go to work and on weekends like a little extra sleep. Is that too much to ask? Of course, after these morons wake the neighborhood, they can go home and sleep all day. We can't. This should be outlawed in a residential area. Please put a stop to it.

Ordinance or not?

The village of Lake Zurich is discussing open burning. When we first moved to the village, they said open burning wasn't allowed. Now they're acting like they don't have an ordinance. Why is it that some codes existed before and now they don't? It's ludicrous to even burn at all unless you live on five acres or so. I recommend people to stop using lighter fluid, too. It smells and is bad for the ozone.

Get EPA out here

The City of Chicago Dept. of Aviation's Noise Abatement Dept. should be eliminated. We have two airplanes that wake us every night. No matter how many times we call, they still do it. Obviously, they're not doing their job. I think we need to have the EPA come in here and have control over noise abatement. The city won't do it, they don't have the noise, we do.

Expose tax abuse

I live in Wauconda Twp. and am calling regarding high real estate taxes. IRS abuses are being exposed in the news. When will abuses by our tax assessor be exposed? When will there be a fair system? What can we do to correct this problem?

Care costs more

Hey, boomers, listen up! Have you noticed all the senior citizen houses and nursing homes being built around here because you can't take care of mom and dad? You're farming them out to these places. But take note the next time you complain that older people get too much in social security. If you squawk about the amount of money it's costing you in taxes, it won't be anything compared to what you'll shell out of your pocketbook for their care.

Tom Tom rebuttal

This is in response to an editorial in the Antioch Community High School Tom Tom. I feel that parents should know their children can get a choice of two menus daily for $1.75. Add a milk for 25 cents and it comes to $2.00. Menus are available in the cafeteria. Deli sandwiches, fresh salads and combo meals are also served for under $3. However, the kids only mention junk food, which is more expensive. Sport lunches are also available for after-school sports.

Antioch

Footsteps followed

In response to "We'll Miss You Marie," when I originally learned Miss Marie resigned her position as director of Camp Crayon in Antioch, I was apprehensive about enrolling my third child in the program. However, hearing that Liz Schmehl was still on staff, I decided to give the new leadership a try and am delighted that I did. I discovered it is still a quality program, staffed by four dedicated people who truly complement each other in the best of ways and enjoy working with children. Yes, Marie did a fantastic job and her great efforts on behalf of the children will never be forgotten, but the new director, Debbie Foerster, and her staff are also doing an excellent job. I am overjoyed they are following in Marie's footsteps. I naturally wish Marie Brausam good luck in all that she involves herself in. To the others on staff, I say keep up the good work. We parents can't be more pleased with the good job you're doing.

Antioch

Plenty of tourists now

This message is about the article in the Oct. 3 paper on the new waterway director, Ms. Hartel. She wants to build tourism to the chain. Before she does anything, I suggest she goes out there on a Friday, Saturday and Sunday on the chain during the summer to see how overly packed it is already. I suggest she does like the State Park does in Wisconsin. They charge twice as much for out of area residents.

Pull the plug on 'Ellen'

I want to comment on the show "Ellen." I think it's derogatory and disgusting with her being gay. I feel that with the sponsors that are pulling out like JC Penney and Chrysler, that means that what happened on that particular show is wrong. It's an abomination unto God and it should be kicked off television. I might get bashed by the gay community because I'm a Christian, but I feel it's morally and ethically wrong. ABC should pull this program off the air immediately. Being gay is not acceptable in God's eyes.

Pay me now

The Grayslake Village Board should cut our property tax bill by a million dollars a year for the next 20 years, with the landfill money promised us instead of using $11 million of it to build a playground for wealthier residents. I want the share of my landfill money in my pocket and I want it now. Reduce my taxes!

Grayslake

Say no to referendum

We approved a referendum a few years ago to add rooms to Palombi School in District 41. They didn't add half as many rooms that was paid for, but put in other things at other schools. Now they want another referendum to add more rooms at Palombi School. Please say no.

Lake Villa

Do something for kids

This is a suggestion. They have haunted houses, why don't they have a children's haunted house with Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs, Beauty and the Beast, etc. I don't think parents would mind paying $2-$3 for what it costs to go there. We want nice things for the kids, we don't want them to be afraid.

Mundelein

Need big signs

They need a huge sign on Gilmer and Diamond Lake roads. If you're going southbound at night, you can't tell what it says. If you're not from the area, you can't see anything. They need a big sign saying there's a street there. I called Transportation and left a message, but I haven't heard any response. They need bigger signs for seniors to see.

Mundelein

You can give money away

Yes, Mayor Carey, you can give landfill money to our fire department to buy a badly needed fire engine. And you can give money to the high school to build an indoor pool we can use year-round. Taxing bodies can legally share revenue for the betterment of the community if they want to. Please don't keep saying it can't be done. This is the time and the place. Money received from the landfills should go to all our taxing bodies.

Grayslake

Start...stop...

I'm surprised that the people that live near Grass Lake railroad station haven't complained to you before. I have freight trains going through with about 45 cars going west. They stop and screech and then they go east again. This has been going on since I got home from work at 10:30 p.m. and it's now 11:10 p.m. Why are these freight trains doing this every night? We can't sleep!

Why strike?

Once again, the Grayslake village idiot has been at work at the Grayslake Dist. 46 school board. School board candidates, beware. If you disagree, you'll be treated with the same lack of respect the current board's received. Teachers, thank you for all your hard work.

Grayslake

Don't hate us

Recently, we've had people coming through our subdivision and throwing fast food drink containers onto our streets and lawns. It's obvious they're jealous that we live in a bigger house than they do. Some people think that just because a house is bigger than theirs, that they have a right to destroy their property. This is your neighborhood, even if you don't live on the street. When people come through here, that's what they think of.

MINDING YOUR OWN BUSINESS

Don Taylor

Seven ways to chase away customers

Recently, I listened to several small-business owners complain about poor service they had received. Many of their complaints, I'd also experienced in the past few months. Someone jokingly suggesting I write a book titled "100 Ways to Run Off Customers."

I'm not sure I'd care to write the book, but it was a good idea for a column. I hope this condensed version will help even the most dense business owners get the point.

Seven proven methods

1. The "Hire-folks-who-don't care" method. This is a sure-fire method for chasing away customers. I recently saw one airline employee cause five different customers to become angry on one short flight. This veteran flight attendant had a real attitude problem. After infuriating the customers, this employee muttered to a fellow flight attendant, "Who do these people think they are?"

"Just the folks who pay your salary," I thought to myself.

2. The "Don't-keep-an-explicit-promise" method. "I'll double coat all surfaces, replace all trim and clean the brick and windows when I'm done," the painter promised. Six weeks later, some trim hasn't received the second coat, the windows still have paint on the glass and the dark brick still has splashes of light paint on it. The painter cashed the check and the job is done as far as he's concerned.

So far, two neighbors have asked if the homeowner was happy with the painter. Two potential jobs lost because of broken promises.

3. The "Don't-keep-an-implied-promise" method. When you rent a car, you expect the windshield wipers to work. When you rent a tiller, you expect the engine to start. When you buy a suit, you expect the zipper to zip properly. These are implied promises.

When it isn't right, you expect it to be fixed. You don't expect an argument unless the owner is practicing method number four.

4. The "Winning-the-argument" method. "All you have to do is follow the directions I gave you and it will work," the sales clerk said over the phone.

"I have," was the frustrated reply.

"You couldn't have, or it would be working just fine," argued the clerk.

The customer hung up. The clerk chalked up another victory while the customer reached for the yellow pages.

5. The "Deaf-ear" method. "How was everything?" the waiter asked.

"Well, the steak was tough, the mashed potatoes cold and lumpy and the salad had brown lettuce in it," the diner replied.

"Would you care for desert?" the waiter asked.

6. The "Guilt-trip" method. The store was dingy and shopworn. The lighting was bad, the windows dirty and the floor was gritty underfoot. The inventory looked old and dog-eared though it was new.

The owner looked across the street at the full parking lot of the power retailer who'd moved in. "I've been here 35 years supporting this community," the owner said to the customer. "Why haven't they stuck by me? You'd think they own me some loyalty after all these years." The customer looked around and wished he was across the street.

Komatsu donates $25,000 to VICA

Komatsu America International Co. (KA), the second largest manufacturer of construction equipment in North America, donated $25,000 to the national Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) organization. The money will sponsor activities at both the high school and vocational levels.

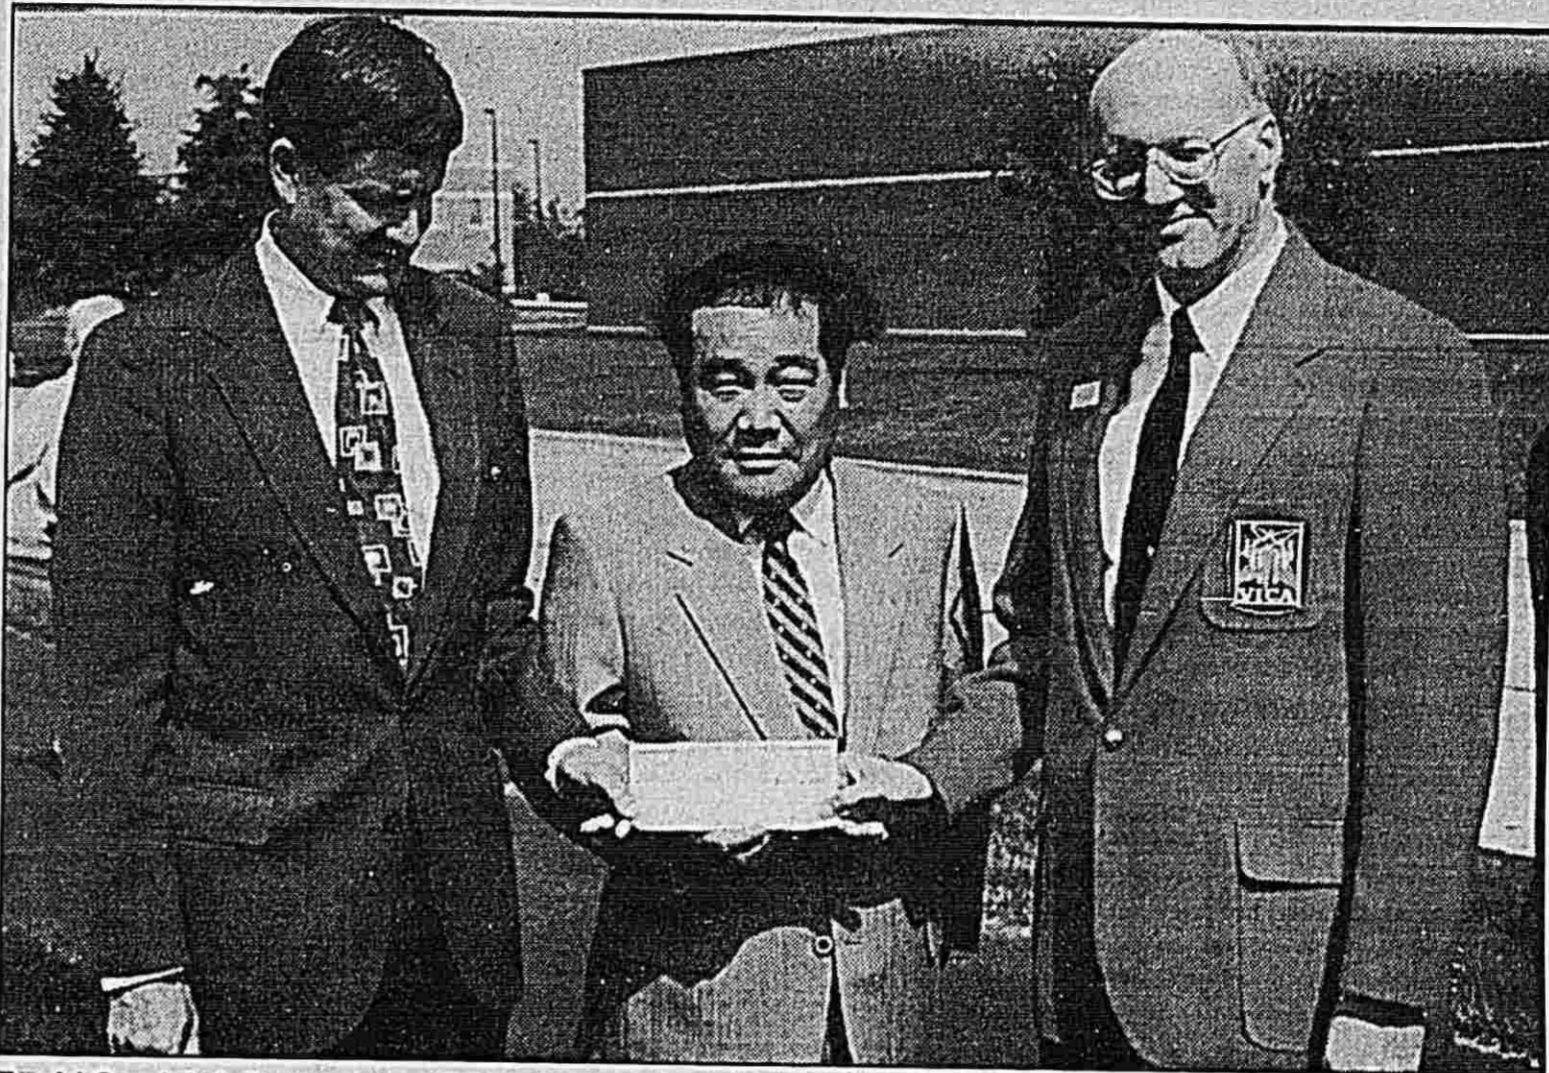

Komatsu's donation will help subsidize a mailing program that will reach over 14,000 high school VICA advisors. The mailing program is designed to promote a community service project where high school students visit junior high and elementary students to discuss vocational career opportunities.

"VICA is pleased to welcome Komatsu as a new partner," says Stephen Denby, executive director of VICA. "We applaud their commitment to help us create the skilled work force our nations needs. Thanks to Komatsu, we will be able to expand the message to students and their parents that there are outstanding career opportunities that don't always require a four-year degree."

"The skilled labor shortage is keenly felt in the heavy equipment industry and in virtually every trade we can name," Denby continues. "Consequently, our capacity for national economic growth is compromised. We thank Komatsu for standing up with other VICA partners to promote the young men and women who will be building America tomorrow."

In addition to the mailing program, Komatsu's sponsorship will also include sending posters to over 3,300 Diesel Equipment Technology Students.

says David Grzelak, president/CEO of Komatsu America. "VICA is an excellent program for promoting and preparing our youth for successful vocational careers."

Komatsu America International Co., the second-largest supplier of construction equipment in North America, manufactures and markets the Komatsu, Dresser and Gallion lines. Komatsu Mining Systems, Inc., the second-largest supplier of mining equipment in North America, manufactures and markets the Komatsu, Haulpak, DeMag and Modular Mining lines.

Both companies' product lines include hydraulic excavators, wheel loaders, crawler dozers, off-highway trucks, and motor graders.

All Komatsu construction and mining equipment is supported by Komatsu Parts and Service and can be financed through KDC Financial.

VICA is a student organization that works directly with business and industry to maintain American productivity, quality and competitiveness. There are more than 13,000 VICA chapters at public high schools, trade and technical schools, and junior and community colleges. VICA serves nearly 250,000 student and professional members who are enrolled in trade, technical, industrial and health occupations programs.

Target Store opens in Lake Zurich

The doors to a new Target store at 555 S. Rand Rd., in Lake Zurich is open. It is the 32nd Target store in the greater Chicago area, representing the company's continuing growth in the state.

Target Stores, the largest division of Dayton Hudson Corp., is the third largest discount retailer in the country and is opening approximately 67 new stores in 1997. Target's goal is to deliver great value to its guests by providing high-quality merchandise at low everyday prices, in stores designed for convenience and distraction-free shopping. Target has established a tradition of referring to customers as guests because of its emphasis on excellent service.

"Target is expanding into areas near existing store markets, but where consumers are not yet being conveniently served by a Target store," said Ken Woodrow, Target president.

Construction of the 117,000-square-foot Lake Zurich store took approximately 10 months to complete. The store will employ approximately 200 people and contribute $200,000 a year to the local economy through the purchase of services and supplies from local businesses.

In keeping with its long-standing tradition, Target will announce plans for several community involvement programs in Lake Zurich as the new store opens.

Hours for the new store is Monday through Sunday, 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Repairing the damage

TCI Cable Advanced technician Dan O'Shea works on repairing cable wires that were damaged in Sunday night's winds and then severed by a passing train at the tracks on Grand Avenue in Lake Villa. The damage resulted in 10,000 customers being without cable in northern and western Lake County and parts of McHenry County for about eight hours Monday. "The repair of the fiber optic cable is a very delicate and time-consuming procedure, but our staff wasted no time in getting cable service back to the homes affected by the outage," said Paul Ashley, general manager of TCI of Northeast Illinois. Ashley said a repair of this type usually takes 24-hours to fix. Customers will receive a 50 cent credit on their bill —Photo by Sandy Bressner

Walgreens announces records sales

Walgreen Co. announced record sales and earnings for both the fourth quarter and fiscal year 1997. It was Walgreens 23rd consecutive year of record sales and earnings.

Net sales for the fourth quarter ended Aug. 3 rose 13.2 percent to $3.3 billion, and for the full year they rose 13.5 percent to $13.4 billion. Total sales in comparable stores (those open at least a year) advanced 7.9 percent for the fourth quarter and 8.1 percent for the year.

Net earnings for the quarter increased 17.8 percent to $106 million or 22 cents per share, compared to earnings of $90 million or 18 cents per share last year.

Net earnings for the fiscal year were $436 million or 88 cents per share, a 17.2 percent increase over last year's earnings of $372 million or 75 cents per share.

Walgreens robust growth in pharmacy continued, with pharmacy sales increasing 18.1 percent for the year and 19.5 percent for the quarter. Despite low inflation in the pharmacy, prescription sales in comparable stores increased 14.4 percent for the quarter and 13.0 percent of the year.

Company chairman Charles R. Walgreen III said he was particularly happy with this year's results because they continue Walgreens long series of consecutive record years. "This streak ranks as one of the premier performances in American business today," said Walgreen. "Only a handful of companies can match it."

Company President L. Daniel Jorndt said that while all facets of Walgreens performed well during the year, he was especially pleased with the company's many newer stores, those opened within the past two to three years.

"Sales in these newer stores—which are all freestanding—have exceeded our expectations," said Jorndt. He said Walgreens has opened a total of 667 new and relocated stores over the past three years, and that over half the chain—more than 1,300 stores—is now freestanding.

"We're getting younger!" he noted. "The average age of a Walgreen store today is 7.4 years, compared to 14.2 years back in 1986. By our 100th anniversary—2001—the average Walgreen store will be only 5.7 years old."

Walgreens opened a total of 251 new drugstores during the year, including 71 stores that were relocated to better, more profitable locations. Walgreen said the target for fiscal 1998 is 280 new Walgreen drugstores across the country.

To help meet the company's aggressive growth plans and prepare for the future, Walgreen said the company's capital expenditure budget for fiscal 1998 is targeted at more than $500 million dollars.

"Needless to say, we're pleased with last year's results," said Walgreen, "and with the strength and the future of our company, I expect another fine year for Walgreens in fiscal 1998."

First Midwest completes McHenry State Bank acquisition

John M. O'Meara, chairman of First Midwest Bank, NA's announced that First Midwest Bancorp, Inc., the bank's parent company, has completed the acquisition of SparBank, the holding company of McHenry State Bank.

This acquisition marks First Midwest's entrance into the McHenry County market. The addition of the four McHenry locations complement the 13 banking offices operating in adjoining Lake County and increases the bank's assets in the two county area to approximately $1.6 billion.

McHenry State Bank, with its client driving banking philosophy, has established itself as the standard bearer of community banking throughout McHenry, and creates a natural partnership with First Midwest. This is demonstrated through the comparable valued added banking programs both banks provide, which focus on creating value for the customer.

Clients of McHenry State Bank should continue to use their current checks, and utilize the bank in every way in which they are accustomed. Over the next several months the operations of both banks will be integrated. During that transitional period, customers will be kept apprised of service enhancements through several planned communications.

"We are anxious to begin working with our partners in McHenry," stated O'Meara. "Once our operations are fully integrated, customers will have a more diverse and enhanced spectrum of financial products from which to choose, while maintaining the same one-on-one banking service they demand and expect."

Mel Prust, president of McHenry State Bank, will continue to serve in the same capacity, overseeing the day-to-day operations of all four McHenry locations.

Prust will continue to focus on adding value and providing quality customer service to the many families and small business owners that thrive throughout the McHenry community.

CUSTOMERS: Help for business owners to get the point

7. The "One-I'm-sorry-at-a-time" method. "I'm sorry that took so long," the clerk at the counter said as she finally hung up the phone. "Now, what can I get you?" The customer placed her order and waited patiently.

A few minutes later the clerk delivered a tray with food. "This is not what I ordered," said the customer.

"I'm sorry," said the clerk.

"What did you order?"

"I can't wait any longer," replied the customer. "May I have my money back, please?"

"I'm sorry," said the clerk. "No refunds. Store policy you know."

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Clearly identify personal objective before investing

Your financial professional has probably talked to you about your "real rate of return." It's what you get to keep after paying taxes on your investment income.

Most people typically overlook taxes when comparing investment returns. They also don't think about capital gains taxes — the tax you owe if you make a profit on an investment. The best way to avoid capital gains tax is not to sell.

But with mutual funds, taxes take on a different twist. Mutual funds generally do not pay income taxes. Instead, profits and income generated within the fund are passed on to shareholders, who must pay taxes on them. Even if you select to have dividends and capital gains reinvested, you still owe taxes on them for the year in which they occur. You're paying taxes now on benefits you may not receive for years.

One way to reduce taxes on mutual fund capital gains is to buy funds with a relatively low portfolio turnover. Turnover refers to the selling of investments within a fund. Each time a mutual fund sells an investment and realizes a gain, a taxable event occurs. High turnover typically occurs more frequently in aggressive growth funds than in more conservative funds that buy and hold securities for longer periods. You can find a fund's turnover rate in its prospectus.

That takes care of taxes on capital gains within a mutual fund, but what about taxes on your mutual fund dividends? Another way some funds are attempting to increase net after-tax return to shareholders is through tax strategy funds. For example, one such fund invests 40 percent to 50 percent of its assets in tax-exempt bonds.

While investing part of a mutual fund portfolio in tax-free securities can increase returns to shareholders, it takes a knowledgeable investor to appreciate its value. In performance comparisons, tax strategy funds are often grouped with funds that allocate 60 percent to stocks and 40 percent to taxable bonds.

Because stocks and taxable bonds generally provide higher rates of return (before taxes) than tax-exempt bonds, the performance figures of tax strategy funds pale by comparison. But when taxes are figured in, the tax strategy funds move up considerably in performance rankings.

This is another example of the importance of clearly identifying your objective before investing. If taxes are of no consequence to you, go for total return. Look for funds that offer the highest income and gains within your risk requirements. On the other hand, if you'd like to minimize taxes, ask your financial professional about tax strategy funds.

For financial questions contact Noah Seidenberg, investment representative for Edward Jones in Grayslake at 223-1908.

Contractors association hosts county board chairman

Robert Grever, chairman of the Lake County Board, will be the guest speaker at the Lake County Contractors Assn. General Membership meeting Thursday, Oct. 23. His topic will be "What the Future Holds for Lake County."

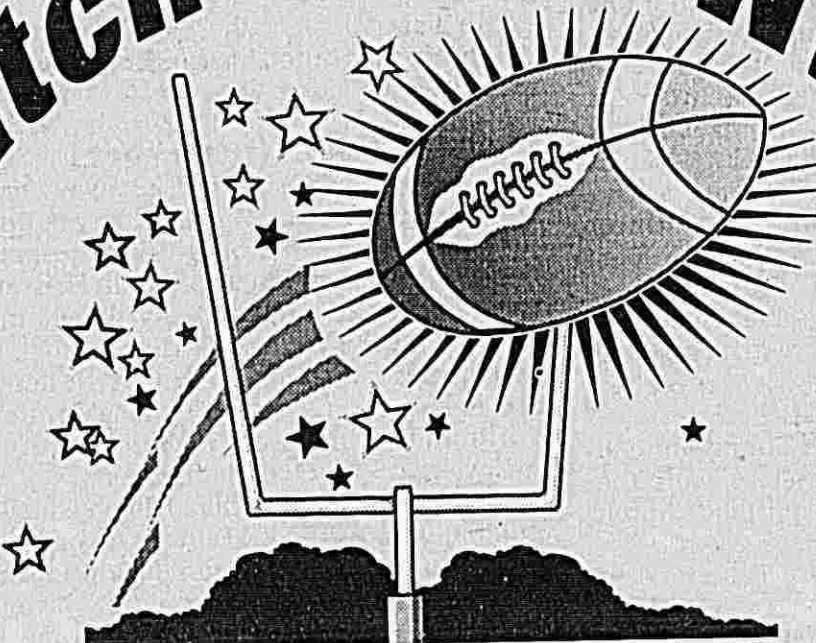

How do we balance the pressures of a growing population with the need to maintain a desirable quality of life? What does responsible development mean? Can we really expect controlled growth or is that a fictional concept? These are some of the issues Grever will address at the meeting.

The meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Country Squire Restaurant, 19133 W. Route 120, Grayslake. Dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m., with the program starting at 8:30 p.m. For information, call LCCA at 623-2345.

The LCCA, a leading construction-industry trade association of contractors, suppliers and related service firms, provides members with timely information, education and safety training, while protecting members' interests in government and labor relations.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search:

I have been out seeking employment since graduation which was in June. I have a degree in business and have been going to school for what seems to be forever. I took some time off over the summer to kind of unwind. I felt I earned it. In September, I started avidly looking for a job with an interview here and there but unfortunately no luck. Now as the holidays are approaching, my folks are on my back that I should be searching harder than I am. I have tried to tell them that nobody is going to hire anyone this close to the holidays. Will you please confirm this?
W.G. - Antioch

Dear W.G:

Sorry, I can't help you out there. Certainly it is expected that as the holidays approach, the hiring that companies do, may slow down. It does not stop, however. Many companies at this time are seeking temporaries to come in and fill in where needed for year end data that needs to be compiled, analysis that needs to be done, information in general that needs to get out. I will tell you that with the holidays upon you, there are less people taking the time to search for a job because they are thinking along the same lines as you. Actually, now is your best time to be out there looking. So many companies look to hire on at the end of the year with the knowledge that new hires will come on board after the first of the year. Don't put off until tomorrow what everyone else may be putting off too. Opportunity knocks even during the holiday season.

Dear Search:

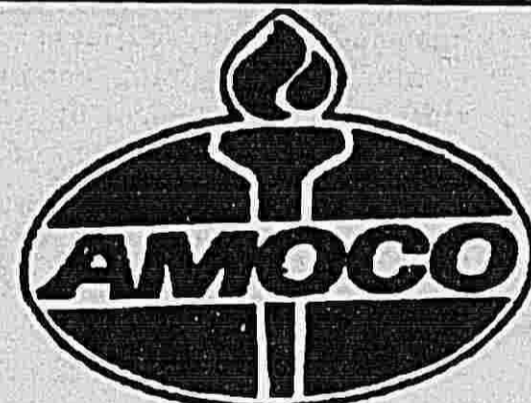

I have a question regarding after interview protocol. How often should a person contact the employer after having interviewed with them. In particular, I interviewed with a company 2 weeks ago and was supposed to hear from them within 3 weeks from that time. I send a thank you note to the interviewer and have followed up with 2 telephone calls. I was not put through on either one of them. Is there a point in time where I may hurt my chances by appearing too aggressive?
R.K. - Gurnee

Dear R.K:

Thank you notes are a definite must! It shows professionalism, respect and appreciation. A telephone call to the interviewer even after the note is sent can be beneficial. If you can get through to that individual, you may find out if there is in fact a possibility of your future with them. Be prepared with what to say before you make the call. Good Luck!

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

SWEET, SHAGGY "MOLLIE"

"MOLLIE" is a young, one year old female, black/brown chow/aussie shepherd mix. This delightful breed mix makes Mollie both exceptionally adorable and good natured. Mollie has the face of a chow, plus the dense, shaggy, plush medium coat that's a joy to pet and which makes Mollie irresistibly huggable! Mollie's temperament favors the aussie shepherd in her - a wonderful blend of intelligence, trainability and affection. A smaller mid-size, Mollie was found as a stray. The family that found her tell us she is HOUSE-BROKEN and GOOD WITH CHILDREN. Mollie is a charming, incredibly LOVEABLE girl, with an easy-going, CALM and GENTLE "dog"-sonality. She absorbs affection like a sponge and gives it back with dividends. If you are looking for a pretty, mid-size family dog that will be your friend for life, Mollie is waiting for you in Cage 49.

ALL DOGS BENEFIT FROM BASIC HOUSEBREAKING AND OBEDIENCE TRAINING WHICH HELPS BOND DOG TO OWNER. CRATING IS RECOMMENDED THE FIRST YEAR WHEN THE OWNER IS AWAY IF NECESSARY.

Cash $55 donation includes free spay/neuter, collar, tag, leash, follow up care, first shots and more.

Orphans of the Storm is located at 2200 Riverwoods Rd., Deerfield. Hours are 11am - 5pm, seven days a week. Call (847) 945-0235 for further information.

FIREFLY

Landmark Designs INC.

FIREFLY

The 2115 square foot Firefly has a modern floor design perfectly suited for empty nesters who need room for occasional visitors or those families with older children still at home. With the master suite on the first floor of this two-story beauty, and the secondary sleeping areas on the top floor, privacy is assured for all. The exterior of the Firefly is finished in an eye-catching combination of siding, topped by a shake roof.

A covered porch with waist high railing frames the front of the home and provides a pleasant location for savoring a starlit summer evening. The vaulted entry welcomes guests into your home, with a comfortable living room to the immediate right. Here, plenty of light shines through the front windows during the day, and cool nights will find the fireplace exuding warmth throughout this cozy room. A double opening woodbox is conveniently placed near the fireplace.

The isolated master bedroom is to the rear and features a large walk-in closet and semi-private bathroom with twin basins. There is private access to the back deck. A handy utility room sits between the master suite and the family room, which is quite open and boasts a big bay window with recessed seat.

The walk-through kitchen is central to the Firefly house design and sits between the family room, where casual meals can be eaten, and the formal dining room. The kitchen has many outstanding features including: a walk-in pantry, raised eating bar, double ovens, grill, appliance center, trash compactor and Garden window.

The upper level has two very nice-sized bedrooms, one with a walk-in closet. They share a full bathroom and a library with built-in bookshelves and railing that allows you to look down on the entryway. One of the bedrooms, if not in use, can easily be converted into a den or home office.

The Firefly has a 625 square foot detached garage with enclosed storage space, built-in workbench, and an attic for even more storage.

For a study kit of the FIREFLY (336-160LP60) or a Dream Home Book, send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, 33127 Saginaw Rd. E., Cottage Grove, OR 97424 (Specify plan name & number for kit). For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark Designs, or call 1-800-562-1151.

Brendan O'Neill

Scopel to play softball in Australia

Kristin Scopel, a senior at Antioch Community High School, has been chosen to play with the Lindenhurst Fastpitch Traveling Softball Team. The team is traveling to Australia Nov. 19, and Scopel needs some financial assistance to help off-set the cost of transportation and lodging.

The amount of money Scopel must come up with to play with the team in this unique situation is near $3,000. The Lindenhurst Traveling Softball Team is working with Field of Champions International Fastpitch Softball to send local softball players to play in the 1997 Australian-American Friendship Series.

For more information, or to donate money for Kristin's trip, please contact the Field of Champions Fastpitch Softball, at 746-6371, fax to 746-0560, or call 1-888-USA-CHAMP.

Gurnee Mills will host a sports card and memorabilia show this weekend including autograph sessions with Gayle Sayers and Darnell Autry of the Chicago Bears.

The event will include over 100 exhibitor tables throughout the mall, making this event one of the largest in the country.

For more information, please call (561) 487-0258, or contact Gurnee Mills Mall.

Carmel High School will honor three past graduates by inducting them into the school's Athletic Hall of Fame.

The inductees include Rob Graham, class of '87, Todd Baczek, class of '90, and Jeff Zgonina, class of '88.

Zgonina lettered in football, basketball and track at Carmel, and played football at Purdue University, where he was named All-American in 1992. He was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers in '93, and currently plays on the defensive line for the St. Louis Rams.

Brendan O'Neill can be reached at (847) 223-8161, ext. 132; fax (847) 223-8810; or e-mail at edit@lnd.com.

ACHS gets key win 34-6

The job of a defensive lineman is often not a glamorous one.

That has not stopped Antioch senior Mike Morrissey from contributing two solid years. He made the lineman's dream when he scored a TD off a blocked punt in a 34-7 Antioch romp over Lake Forest.

The win keeps the Antioch playoff hopes alive with a 4-3 overall mark, 2-2 in the North Suburban. Libertyville's offense with more than 300 yards in last week's win over Warren has been keeping ACHS defenders up nights.

But for a moment this summer-like Saturday, Morrissey had a chance to bask in the glory of the 18-yard return. The play capped off ACHS scoring.

"It was uplifting to be on the plus side of turnovers. We had five fumble recoveries. Morrissey had two, while Quinn Gooch, John Mitchell, Mark Mackie had one each," said ACHS defensive coach Mike Gordy.

Morrissey had a sack and a hurry as well.

"He does a nice job. He is steady, not spectacular. We ask the linemen to keep the seal down so the linebackers can make more tackles. We were not even in a punt block formation, but Quinn Gooch put pressure on their punter. Morrissey leaped two feet into the air to keep it moving. He was sky-high after the touchdown," said Gordy.

Linebacker Reggie Hughes had eight tackles, two assists and two tackles for loss.

"We figured we needed a win to be in the playoffs and that is what got us pumped up," said Gordy.

Lake Forest actually outgained Antioch 214-197 yards, but the Sequoits won the battle of field position when they had to.

Brandon Pohleber started the scoring with a one-yard TD plunge. He added a four-yard TD run in the third quarter.

yard run for the Scouts for a 7-6 deficit.

Antioch's express then got going. QB Don Lackey connected with Quinn Gooch for a 16-yard TD pass for a 13-6 halftime lead.

Jeremy Grace had a strong game and scored on a 25-yard scamper.

Next for Antioch is the challenge of facing J.C. Harrington and the Libertyville offense away Oct. 18.

"Their passing game is scary.

Harrington can toss the ball and Brian Hamlett makes everything look good. We will have to find a way to contain them," said Gordy.

On the injury front, Jake Crumond is out with a knee injury but Brad Marchildon may return.

ACHS freshman shows potential at invitational

A freshman may have gained some needed confidence running in a large invitational for Antioch.

Nick Downard placed third among ACHS runners with a 18:42, good enough for 49th at Benet's Invitational. Antioch had four runners place 39th to 50th in an eighth-place 235-point finish.

"Nick ran a good race. He is not big, but he has a lot of heart and desire and his times have come down," said ACHS coach Dave Judson.

Ryan Rothermel was the only Sequoia runner to break the top 40. He was 39th in 17:41.

"Ryan is hoping to get his time under 17:00. He said he could not go any faster on that course," said Judson.

Other ACHS finishers: Jim Meyer, 45th, 18:08; Eric Meyers, 64th, 19:48 and Colin Haley, 70th, 20:30.

ACHS is at Lakewood Forest Preserve for the North Suburban Conference meet Oct. 18. In dual meets, ACHS lost to Zion-Benton 23-32 and to Lake Forest 26-29.

"I hope we can surprise Lake Forest. If we don't have two seniors (not at the Benet meet), we will just do the best we can. Libertyville is the favorite with Stevenson right behind," said Judson.

Steinberg leads Antioch cross country runners

In her three years of running cross country, Laura Steinberg has almost always clocked in the 14-minute range for Antioch.

Considering the course at Benet's Invitational is slightly longer than the 2.0 miles usually mapped out, her 14:06 effort for 21st place goes up a few notches in her races to remember list.

"It was a fairly flat course, 2.1 miles. She did a pretty good time—it was her best finish ever," said ACHS coach Dick Harland.

Wheaton North won the meet with 38 points. Benet was second with 40, followed by Glenbard North's 59 ahead of Antioch.

Steinberg, a junior, paced Antioch to a fourth-place finish with 153 points. The ACHS finishers were only 31 seconds apart.

"I was pleased with the effort," said Harland.

Cara Heneberry was 23d in 14:10. Jessica Sladek was 34th in 14:29. Christina Barbic 37th, 14:34 to round out the top five.

Jenny Hughes finished 67th, 16:02.

Which one of those five teams leads Antioch at the North Suburban Conference meet Oct. 18 at Lakewood Forest Preserve is anyone's guess. Senior Lianna Rothermel had her career cut short due to a back injury.

"There are three runners who could be right there. It just depends on who comes to run that day. We usually run pretty well at Lakewood," said Harland.

ACHS is at the Crystal Lake regional Oct. 25.

Frustrated Rams look for upset

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

When football fans look up the word "frustration" in the dictionary, they may well soon see a Grayslake Ram logo.

The last six weeks have been difficult on the Fox Valley Conference upstarts, but none more so than a 13-10 overtime loss to Lake Zurich. Two Ryan Szczesniak field goals spelled doom for the Rams (1-6) this cool Thursday and gave the Bears (3-4) a much-needed win.

"I have been involved in three overtime games in three years and we are now 2-1. I thought we were going to pull it off," said Rams running back Neil Schroeder.

Schroeder led a well-planned 85 yard drive with less than three minutes left that led to a game-tying field goal by Adam Bergin. Schroeder, carried the ball three times to the two yard-line before he was stopped for a loss on fourth down in overtime.

"They were expecting us to pass, so we ran out of the shotgun. It backs them up defensively," said QB Matt Ellison.

The Rams, with some breaks going their way, easily could have had more than one win going into week eight against McHenry Oct. 17 at home.

"It is just execution - that is the bottom line," said Ellison.

Ellison is one of a bevy of junior starters for Grayslake who are learning in this school of hard knocks season.

"I feel bad for the seniors. It took us four years to get to the top of the Northwest Suburban Conference and it will take us a while in the Fox Valley. In the long run, it will be a good move for the students," said Rams coach Dan Dillon.

The Rams had the field position to operate on offense most of the game. Three interceptions by the Bears secondary, one in the end zone, thwarted that effort. Schroeder had 76 yards rushing on 20 attempts and 83 yards receiving. Ellison was 13-26 for 263 yards passing,

A fumble recovery by junior defensive lineman Josh Paramski set up the last Rams drive. Schroeder brought the ball to the 48 of Lake Zurich and a pass to Alex Frank gained 18 more yards.

With 14 seconds left, Bergin tried a 40-yard field goal but it missed wide left. A roughing the kicker call on Lake Zurich gave the junior another chance. He clearly hit it from 28 yards out.

"Just make it," said Bergin of his mindset before the kick.

Grayslake had a solid game defensively. The only mistake was a 66-yard jaunt by Ryan Goudge just moments after Schroeder had scored from two yards out after a short drive.

Szczesniak converted on a 32-yard field goal on the next Lake Zurich possession after Dale Bowser had stopped QB Josh Hunter for a loss.

"It is getting really frustrating. The kids did a great job," said Dillon.

Again, double check that dictionary soon.

Pee Wee Raiders win 4th-straight

The Antioch Youth Football program traveled to Mundelein and came home with three wins of the four games played. The Pee Wees won their 4th and are still unbeaten. Antioch hosts Round Lake in the final regular season game for all teams. The playoffs start the following week.

The Antioch Raiders evened their record at 3 and 3 with a solid 12-0 victory over the Mundelein broncos. Wide receiver Steve George scored before halftime on an 18 yard end around after shaking off 3 would be tacklers. Another late score by fullback Jeff Canella sealed the victory for Antioch. The defense was led by Ryan Frederick, Nick Nathan, Pat McConnel, Brandon Ziemann, Jon Carrol, Justin Cary and Mike Davis. They bothered the Mundelein passing game all afternoon. Quarterback Luke Sezonov calmly engineered the Raider offense behind strong blocking of Jim Larson, Josh Paddock, Chris Cabrera, Mike Ano, and Mike Murray.

The Viking Pee Wees won their 4th straight game 25-0. Ben Rozewicz led the way scoring three TD's that included returning the opening second half kick off 63 yards for the score. Running back Mike Kroepfl rushed for 118 yards and John Hauser scored the 4th Viking TD. Justin Dee added an extra point. The defense held Mundelein in check throughout the contest and was led by Jeremy Richardson who had a fumble recovery and several key tackles. Others that played well for the defense included Dee, Hauser, Rozewicz, Brandon Geweke, Brian Brickner, Kroepfl, Ty Bynum, Ty Ankney and Bubba Houghton.

The Antioch Lightweights remained unbeaten in conference play with a 22-0 win over Mundelein. Despite a poor showing that included 8 penalties, poor tackling, and a shaky offensive game, the Vikings limited Mundelein to just three first downs. Safety Jeff Welter opened the scoring on a 42 yard pass interception. Quarterback Trent Domel scored the second TD and Matt Elliott added a third TD. Jim Huspen kicked two extra points. "The limited week of practice really hurt us," said head coach Denny Porter. "We have to re-group and get focused if we are to be successful," he added. The Viking totaled just 265 offensive yards.

The Viking Saturday Featherweights are still unbeaten after their 30-0 win over the Lake Zurich Flames Saturday. Running back Taylor Hosick scored a pair of Viking TD's on runs of 75 and 40 yards, Brandon Yates scored from 30 yards out and Tony Weyenberg added a 4th TD on an 18 yard run. Scooter Hooks kicked three extra points and QB mark Sward led the Viking offensive attack which totaled 365 yards. Outstanding blocking efforts were turned in by George Manis, Jason Rogalla, Phil Bednar, Brian Bezak, Stephen Seger and Rick Sedar.

Typhoon take third in tourney

Boys U-10

The Lindenhurst Typhoon (Boys, U-10) compiled a 2-1-1 record at the Libertyville Octoberfest Invitational Soccer Tournament to finish in a tie for third place.

In the first game the Typhoon squared off against the Warren United Blazers B and won 1-0. Typhoon forward Kyle Kozuch scored early in the first half taking the ball through several Blazers to score unassisted. The Typhoon midfield (Ian Hunter, Alex McKenzie, and Jason Moxley) dominated play throughout much of the game as they denied the Blazers any opportunities to push the ball up and score. The Typhoon goalies (Darren Nordstrom, Kyle Kozuch, Ryan Knupp, and Brett Carlson) were again at the top of their game with their fifth shutout of the season supported by an excellent defensive effort from Eric Voight, Alan Kroeger, Patrick McLane, Joe Barlow and Luke Ksioszk.

The second game pitted the Typhoon against the Clinton Iowa Kickers in what turned out to be hard fought struggle that saw the Kickers win 3-1. The Kickers struck hard and early with three goals in the first half. Typhoon midfielder Alex McKenzie answered back scoring unassisted in the first minutes of the second half. The remainder of the game the Typhoon pressed the attack, but the Kickers had an strong and poised defense that played with control and speed. The Typhoon goalies Kyle Kozuch, Ryan Knupp, and Brett Carlson did a remarkable job as they made several saves to keep the score close. Credit also goes to the whole team including sweepers Eric Voight, Brett Carlson, and midfielders Ian Hunter and Alex McKenzie for taming the Kickers offense in the second half.

The third round-robin match saw the Typhoon take on the Libertyville Explosion and win 8-0. It was a big offensive effort as goals for the Typhoon were scored by: Alex McKenzie (2) Danny Braun, Ian Hunter (2) Dany Alvarez, Luke Ksioszk, and Darren Nordstrom with assists by Danny Braun, Alex McKenzie, Ian Hunter, and Jason Moxley. The whole team played well as forwards Patrick McLane, Alan Kroeger, Ryan Knupp and Jason Moxley came within inches of scoring themselves.

In the bonus round the Typhoon played the Libertyville Lynx for third place and finished the game tied 1-1. Alex McKenzie scored early in the first half against the Lynx off a beautiful Ian Hunter cross. The Typhoon goalies (Darren Nordstrom, Kyle Kozuch, and Brett Carlson) had their work cut out for them as they made several diving saves.

Typhoon standouts, Kyle Kozuch, Danny Braun, Dany Alvarez, Alex McKenzie, Jason Moxley and Ian Hunter pressed the offensive effort for the win while fullbacks Alan Kroeger, Brett Carlson, Joe Barlow and Eric Voight kept the Lynx offense at bay for the majority of the game.

In the final to decide 1st and 2nd place at the tournament the Clinton Kickers played Palatine Celtic United to a 3-3 tie. The caliber of teams invited to the competition was excellent and made for a great weekend of soccer for fans and players alike.

Ipsen steadies ACHS spikers

On most above average volleyball teams, the setter can be the steadying influence.

When things get a little shaky, she can take over a match.

Such was the case when Antioch needed from Lisa Ipsen to preserve a two-game win over Woodlands Academy. After dominating 15-2 in game one, the Sequoits were in for a battle before winning 16-14 in game two.

"She is steady all the time. She is what sparks us," said ACHS coach Gwen Varney of Ipsen.

Ipsen, a senior, had 53-of-58 attempts and 16 assists. She also contributed 11-12 serving for 11 points.

"We were trying to mix it up offensively. The first game we did a good job, but we lacked concentration the second game," said Ipsen.

The win gives the Sequoits a good shot at another 20-win season, 19-9 overall. Three matches before the Lake County Classic and of course regionals loom.

"Our goal is to win the regional. This is a very together team," said Ipsen.

Game one was all Antioch this Tuesday. The home team had a 9-2 lead before Woodlands knew what hit them.

Senior Jenny Cardis was on her way to an 11-11 in attack with eight kills. Senior Jenny Gussarson was 14-17 with seven kills.

The second game was a struggle as Woodlands found ways to defend the Antioch attack and generated some offense.

Antioch led 9-5, but Woodlands put together a 9-1 run for a 14-10 lead. The Wildcats served for the game twice, but the Sequoits held on.

Ipsen then led a rally with five straight points, including two aces.

"Our intensity was lacking. We need to be focused no matter what is happening on the other side of the net," said Varney.

Sophomore Megs Kotlarz had a good game serving with nine points and four aces.

ACHS (19-9) hosts Mundelein to close the NSC season Oct. 17. The Sequoits lost 15-6, 15-11 to second-place Lake Forest in a NSC clash.

ACHS will be at the McHenry Regional, playing Round Lake the first round Oct. 28.

JHS looks past Bulldogs to playoffs

By STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Capitalizing on a blocked punt to start a 28-point first half, Johnsburg kept its playoff plans in stride with a shutout win over Grant.

Quarterback Bruce Carpenter threw for more than 200 yards once again (203yds/2TD) as Johnsburg won its sixth-straight football game.

Josh Janik was his favorite receiver as Carpenter threw to him nine times for 173 yards and one touchdown Saturday.

"Both Janik and Bruce were sharp. They made the big plays - with an 80-yarder early in the game. We mixed up the offense pretty well," said JHS coach Bob Bradshaw.

The blocked punt resulted in a two-yard TD run by Carpenter a little more than three minutes into the game. Nathan Wysocki caught a two-yard TD pass and a two-point conversion pass for a 14-0 lead.

Second quarter JHS scores went to Janik on a six-yard pass from Carpenter and Mike Madsen (7 yards) scored on a two-yard run.

The Skyhawks (6-1) hope to have receiver Jeff Dobbertin back for the next test at Round Lake (5-2) Oct. 17.

"It will be a real tough game. They need to win to stay in the playoffs and we hope to clinch a playoff spot next week," said Bradshaw.

Johnsburg's solid effort is keeping its track on its second-straight post-season bid.

Sophomore QB Robert Reyes fared well in his debut, according to Grant coach Mark Barczak.

"He did a nice job. I am proud of him the way he stepped up and is leading us in the right direction," said Barczak.

Reyes is one of six sophomore starters. The Bulldogs (2-5) struggled against the intense JHS defense. They gained 107 total yards, compared to 322 for Johnsburg.

Jim Otto, Nick Kalk and Leo LeBris all had consistent efforts for Grant, the coach mentioned.

Wauconda (0-7) is the next challenge as they host Grant Oct. 17. Grant won the first round 6-2.

Grant spikers improve, look to future

Since its inception in 1895, volleyball has largely been known as a 15-point, win-by-two game.

An effort to shorten the points would be welcome news for Grant.

"We have improved, but we are not finishing games. We would get a lead and make silly mistakes," said Grant coach Sue Thompson.

With a rules change not likely, close matches such as defeats at the hands of Round Lake, McHenry, Wauconda, Richmond-Burton could hold Grant back from a .500 season. "We could easily be 11-14," said Thompson.

Instead, Grant carries a 6-19 mark into the final weeks. Its latest win was a two-game victory over Round Lake.

One bright spot is a tall sophomore who may give Grant High's volleyball team an added weapon when the offense attacks.

Stephanie Cripps, a 5-10 sophomore, got the call to help the varsity.

"She is very aggressive and has some nice blocks. She should help with our height and she is a good jumper. She should give a spark to the seniors," said Thompson.

Grant lost to Round Lake 15-9, 15-12 earlier.

"We played our best games as a team. We have had a lot of long volleys, but we have not had the hitter who can put down the kills," said Thompson.

Two of Grant's first three wins have come over North Chicago in the first dozen matches.

The setting chores have been handled of late by senior Nick Trinchetta.

The freshman team has a winning record, so there is hope in the future.

"We are in the building process," said Thompson.

Grant is at the Lake County Classic tournament to wrap up the regular season.

Grant is at the McHenry regional Oct. 28. The Bulldogs battle McHenry in the first game with Antioch and Round Lake clashing in game two.
